HOOVER PLANS TO SOLVE OLD FARM PUZZLE

Careful Attack on Problem Will Be Worked Out in His Administration

4 MAIN POINTS LISTED

Tariff, Transportation, Waste Elimination and Stability Included

(In this, the second of a series of 12 dispatches, David Lawrence gives an outline of the agricultural policy of the Hoover administration. In succeeding dispatches he will discuss other topics, sketching the basis of action in the new administration.)

Washington—Farm relief, which has dangled in the headlines for more than five years, is at last to be transformed into a practical plan. No general formula which will at once change the status of the many branches of farming in America but a general attack on the problem itself may be said to be the policy of Herbert Hoover.

For a long time the discussion of the farm problem has been confined to Mc Nary-Haugenism or a particular scheme of farm aid, thus making secondary the remedy of some of the other weaknesses in the agricultural situation that have contributed in large part to the inability of the farmer to gain the rewards that he felt were due him.

To Mr. Hoover the farm problem is merely another question of readjustment such as other industries, more closely woven and more definitely concentrated, have been able to effect in the post-war period. While he recognizes the enormous consequences of farm depression when it occurs, and realizes the extent to which the farmer question has been discussed in American politics, the president-elect is nevertheless not at all frightened by the size of his task. His mode of attack will be exactly that which he has fashioned before the complicated problems of industry.

WANTS PROTECTION

First of all, Mr. Hoover feels that many factors enter into a solution. He wants an effective tariff to preserve the home market and safeguard the farmer from competition. Next he wants cheaper transportation, and third, elimination of wastes in the processes of distribution. Finally he is concerned with the attainment of a greater stability in prices, which are now unduly affected both by the seasonal surplus and by the periodic surplus over one year to another.

Mr. Hoover realizes that cheaper water way transportation is not immediately obtainable though it is an objective for which he will strive. He conceives that something can be done at once about the tariff but he is aware that the elimination of it in distribution is not a matter for one season or one year.

This brings the agricultural surplus problem directly to a method which has been characteristic of the president-elect's administration of the department of commerce. He has

44-HOUR WEEK CAUSE OF COMMITTEE DEBATE

Madison—(P)—A vigorous fight on a bill limiting to 44 hours the working week for women in industry was made before the assembly committee on labor Tuesday.

The committee postponed for a week its recommendation on the measure in order to allow a more complete hearing. The bill was introduced by Mrs. Mary O. Kryszak, Milwaukee, the only woman in the legislature.

The number of hours a week a girl needs to dress, eat, study and recreation were discussed fully by the committee and by representatives both of labor and employers' organizations.

Delightfully Surprised

It was a feeling of elation and delight that Mrs. Henry Froehlich, 411 E. Pacific St., experienced when she realized that a "Classified Ad" under "Household Goods," had enabled her to sell every piece of household furniture and odd articles advertised. Turning household articles into cash is one of the "magic" touches of Post-Crescent Classified Ads. "Tell it well—and it will sell—in the 'Classifieds'."

No Action On Lenroot As Justice

Former Badger Senator Denies He Acted as Lobbyist for Concern

Washington—(P)—Senate judiciary sub-committee appointed to consider the nomination of former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin for the court of customs appeals, Wednesday had in its records a denial from him that he had ever been a lobbyist since his retirement from congress two years ago.

Lenroot's denial was in reply to a question by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the sub-committee, only member present at hearing on the nomination was held here late Tuesday. Borah said that newspapers had referred to Lenroot as a lobbyist at the time he appeared before the senate interstate commerce commission in opposition to the Walsh resolution for investigation of the power utility companies.

"My regret is that I didn't sue those papers for libel," replied Lenroot. He said he considered appearance before a congressional committee as a lawyer in the same classification with appearance in court.

DELAYS REPORT

The brief examination of Senator Borah concluded the hearings on Lenroot's nomination. He said he would refer a report to the judiciary committee until the other members of the sub-committee—Steiner, Republican, Oregon, and Nalley, Democrat, West Virginia—had an opportunity to read the testimony.

Lenroot said he had very firm convictions against a former member of congress using his privilege of the floor and his acquaintance with members to solicit congressmen on behalf of legislation. Despite many proffers in this connection, he said he had refused consistently to take such work.

He said he appeared before the interstate committee as a lawyer on behalf of the joint committee of National Utility associations and added he asked the committee, before reporting favorably the Walsh resolution, to establish a "prima facie" case against the utility companies. He said he also had asked that the investigation be made by another tribunal than the senate. Lenroot declined he solicited no member of the senate in connection with that case and his duties comprised only argument before the committee, and an examination of witnesses.

LARGEST VOLCANO IS THROWING UP FLAMES

Hilo, Hawaii—(P)—Kilauea, world's largest active volcano, began erupting early Wednesday. Fire broke out at 4:50 Wednesday morning, two large fountains of flame continuously east and west 250 to 300 feet high in the Halemauau pit which is 1,800 feet across.

FOUR BANDITS HANGED PUBLICLY BY CROATS

Zagreb, Croatia—(P)—Four bandits were hanged here publicly Wednesday, one of them placing the rope around his neck and springing the trap himself when the executioner faltered.

Murder, brigandage and banditry were among the charges for which the four self-confessed murderers went to the gallows.

All but one of the doomed men went to death stoically the fourth began singing hymns and making grimaces at his companions in death. Later he became violent and had to be brought to the gallows forcibly.

Jones Bill Approved By Senate--Is Up To House

Washington—(P)—Safely through the senate with votes to spare, the Jones bill to increase penalties for prohibition violations, now goes to the house. But it is problematical whether any action will be taken on it there at this session, or at the special session to come. This session is fast drawing to a close and legislators have practically agreed that only farm relief and tariff revision will be taken up at the special session.

Opponents of the measure held their own in the debate that centered about it but they fell short when the balloting began. The vote was 63 to 18.

The bill increases the maximum penalty for first violations of the prohibition laws to a fine of $10,000 or five years in prison, or both. The maximum penalty for first violations is at present a fine of $1,000, or six months imprisonment, or both, and for second offenders a fine of $2,000, with five years imprisonment. Minimum penalties were not changed.

The bill was not aimed at petty or casual offenders, a provision inserted

3 'DRY' BILLS ARE KILLED BY STATE SENATE

Teasdale Measures Lost—House Debates on Duncan Referendum Proposal

Madison—(P)—While the state senate Wednesday was defeating three measures for more strict regulations against liquor, the assembly debated the Duncan resolution for a state referendum on repeal of the Severyn dry law and legalization of 2.75 per cent beer.

The lower house reached no decision on the resolution and recessed at noon to meet again Wednesday night for a continuance of the debate. But three amendments to the proposal were defeated.

One amendment by Assemblyman Pahl of Milwaukee, would have also submitted to popular vote the question of prohibiting the drinking of liquor in the place it was purchased. A second, by Assemblyman Langve of Westby, would have changed the referendum date from the April to the November election and the third proposed amendment by Carow of Ladysmith, would have added to the questions for submission that of abolishing the state prohibition commissioner's office. There were defeated by votes of 49 to 42, 49 to 43, and 55 to 35, respectively.

Lower weight of that debate in the lower house was in opposition to the resolution, assemblyman Wallace Ingalls, Racine, and E. G. Smith, Beloit, making long addresses to point to the inefficiency of the proposal in view of the national laws.

BACKS RESOLUTION

Assemblyman Weller, Milwaukee, opened the argument for the prohibition, holding that in saloon days, children were not allowed in drink establishments, while "now kids 14 years old go into what are called soft drink parlors and drink poison."

"I'm about as wet as any of them," said Assemblyman Lee D. Eastman of Grant-co, "but I can't bring myself to vote on a resolution that might bring about an unconstitutional vote. The federal constitution prohibits this thing."

Assemblyman J. D. Grandine, Argonne, contended that "the author and his crew want it in April so the big cities where the voters can get to the polls, can pass on it favorably while farmers, mired in, can't get to the polls."

Assemblyman Grandine, said Senator Duncan proposed this and the b-r bill of last session as a move to split the Republican party in Wisconsin.

SENATE KILLS BILLS

Three bills, intended to make more stringent the enforcement of state and federal liquor laws, were defeated by the Wisconsin senate Wednesday. All three were fostered by Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta, dry crusader.

One of the defeated measures proposed to make the purchasers of liquor equally guilty with the seller. The second provided that soft drink parlor licenses could not be renewed for five years after a proprietor's conviction under the dry law. The third proposed to revoke for five years the licenses of dance hall owners upon conviction of violating the prohibition laws.

The vote on the proposal to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller was defeated 24 to 9. The measure concerning dance hall licenses was defeated 20 to 12, and the one dealing with soft drink parlors lost 23 to 9.

WILL APPROVE INCREASE IN BANK BUYING RATES

Washington—(P)—Federal Reserve board announced Wednesday that it would approve an increase in the buying rates of bankers acceptances by all federal reserve banks to conform with the rates of the New York Federal Reserve banks.

The acceptance rates now are one to forty-five days, 5 per cent; 46-90 days, 5.1-5 per cent; 91 to 180 days, 5.1-2 per cent.

The federal reserve banks at Dallas, Minneapolis, Kansas City, San Francisco, Atlanta and St. Louis already have applied for permission to increase rates.

Bankers acceptances are drafts on a buyer from a seller when goods are to be paid for at some future date. Such a draft is acknowledged by the buyer and the seller discounts it at a bank to prevent his money being tied up pending date of payment.

BITTER COLD STILL GRIPS WISCONSIN

Wisconsin Rapids Reports 43 Degrees Below—Relief Is Expected

(By the Associated Press)

Wisconsin Rapids usurped the record for low temperatures Wednesday. The official government thermometer registered 43 degrees below zero early Wednesday morning, making it the coldest spot in Wisconsin and probably the coldest in the nation.

Wausau and LaCrosse were previously reported as being the coldest places in the United States with temperatures of 26 below but since the reception of these reports the temperature readings at Wausau and Eau Claire were announced. At the latter city the thermometer registered 30 below, the coldest registered here this winter. Wausau reported 41 degrees below.

Relief from the cold wave is expected late Wednesday. The weather forecast promises a marked rise in temperature, increasing southerly winds and snow late Wednesday night or Thursday.

Green Bay experienced 22 below zero temperatures Wednesday while Superior residents suffered from 35 below zero weather. At Racine the temperature reading was 15 below zero. At 7 o'clock Wednesday morning the cold sent the mercury down to 38 below at Wisconsin Rapids but it was rising at a steady rate. The previous low temperature mark this year was 34 below zero.

As far as can be determined, the temperature at Oshkosh Wednesday—34 below zero—is the lowest experienced in the city's history. On Feb. 24, 1923, a low mark of 28 was recorded and that was the coldest weather known here for since 1899 when the temperature reading was 30 below zero. Wednesday's readings were made by the government observatory's thermometer.

CLINTONVILLE JUNK DEALER KILLS SELF

Albert Smith, 50, of Clintonville, committed suicide at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening by drinking poison. Mr. Smith, who was a junk dealer, had lived in Clintonville for 10 years. He was born at Dela and married Miss Clara Roth. The survivors are the widow, three children, Gladys, Albert and William, and four brothers. Funeral services will be Friday from the Ellwanger Undertaking parlors at Clintonville.

NASH, PACKARD STRONG ON RUMORS OF MERGER

New York—(P)—Concurrent strength in Wednesday stock market of Packard and Nash revived reports of a merger of these two companies. Packard ran up nearly 8 points to 137 1/2 and Nash climbed more than three points.

DENIES REPORT

Omaha—(P)—C. W. Nash, president of Nash Motors, here for the Omaha Auto show, Wednesday declared that "so far as I know and as far as I am concerned there is no basis for the report of a Nash-Packard merger." He refused to say to this comment.

HARDY IMPEACHMENT IS ASKED IN REPORT

Sacramento, Calif.—(P)—Impeachment of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles, was asked Wednesday in a report filed with the assembly by a special committee appointed to investigate charges of misbehavior in office, in connection with acceptance by Jurist of $25,000 check from Mrs. Ammie McPherson, the evangelist.

4 CARS PLUNGE OVER BANK IN MINE REGION

900 Miners Aboard Train in Illinois—Derailed Cars Plunge 25 Feet

Peoria, Ill.—(P)—At least six miners were killed Wednesday and about 200 others were injured, some of them so seriously they may die, when four cars of an 11-car Peoria terminal railway train, carrying 900 miners to work went over a 25 foot embankment near Tolia, Ill., five miles south of here.

One of the cars caught fire from an overturned stove but the fire was extinguished before it spread to other coaches, although one miner probably was fatally burned when he was knocked unconscious and fell across the stove. He was rescued by another miner.

The train, was enroute to the Crested Coal mines, 15 miles south of here. The engines said he was proceeding between 12 and 15 miles an hour and did not know anything was wrong until he glanced back and saw the cars bouncing along the rails, then tumble over the embankment. He cut his engine from the train and ran to Tolia where help was summoned.

MINER WRECKAGE

Within a few minutes scores of wives and children of the miners were on the scene, some of them only half dressed braving the fire and below zero weather in a frantic search of the wreckage.

There was much confusion due to the fact that persons living nearby rushed to the wreck in automobiles and took many of the injured to Peoria hospitals so that relatives were unable to find any trace of them.

Wives of the miners, hysterically ran from coach to coach, making frantic inquiries of those they met digging in the wreckage.

The railroad was used only to carry miners to work. At one time it was the hand of a receiver and recently had been operated as the Peoria and Hanna City railway, although still known as the Peoria Terminal railway.

REPORT G. O. P. MEETING ON CHARGES BY BARRY

Madison—(P)—Judge S. B. Scheld, of Dane-co superior court, Wednesday announced that he had turned testimony in the John Doe investigation into Progressive pre-primary practices, over to Dist. Atty. Fred Riser. They will decide after reading the evidence and the summary of Mr. Barry's findings, whether to proceed for criminal warrants against Progressives shall be met.

MILWAUKEE—(P)—A Madison dispatch to the Milwaukee Journal Wednesday said that Conservative Republican state senators held a caucus Tuesday night and questioned Arthur Barry concerning his report that several Progressives had violated the corrupt practices act.

The senators were reported, told the Journal, that there was some expenditure in the reported expenditure of $125,000 but that it would not exceed $4,000. He said that this might be wiped out by expenditures in 15 counties where LaFollette candidates did not make an accounting.

The Journal said that the senators agreed that the legislature should proceed with an investigation of campaign funds proposed in three resolutions now before the senate committee on corporations and taxation.

Barry, in his report, recommended to Judge S. B. Scheld that criminal action be taken against Lieut. Gov. Henry Huber, Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and Attorney General John W. Reynolds, all of whom have denied a violation and that the case against Senator LaFollette be referred to the United States senate.

TWO YOUTHS FIRST TO DIE IN ILLINOIS CHAIR

Chicago—(P)—The execution of the two youths in their teens early Wednesday introduced the electric chair in Chicago as the legal death penalty for capital crimes.

Anthony Greco and Charles Walsh, 17 and 16 months of each other, were hanged in the night for the murder of Pauline Arthur Esau during a structure holdup last April.

SCHNEIDER DEER BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Washington, D. C.—(P)—The house committee has approved a bill to authorize the secretary of interior to convey to Wisconsin, upon payment of $125 per acre, the deer and Virginia Island in Wheeler Lake, that the land would be used as public park.

3 MEN CAUGHT AFTER ESCAPE FROM PRISON

McDermott and Two Pals Recaptured Less Than 24 Hours After Break

Columbus, O.—(P)—Three of five convicts who saved their way to freedom through the bars of Ohio State penitentiary Tuesday were captured and returned to solitary confinement early Wednesday, less than 24 hours after their escape.

Pat McDermott, gunman of the Don R. Mellett slaying in Canton, and Mike Jacko, who murdered a Cleveland butcher, were cornered in a power house tower five miles north of here at midnight and captured by J. S. Clumley and Charles Williams, Franklin-co. deputy sheriffs. Joe Rosso, Cleveland robber, was taken a few hours later at a farm south of here by Deputy Sheriff John G. McDermott and Jacko are serving life terms.

The others sought were William W. Young, sentenced to life for the murder of a Marietta, Ohio policeman, and James A. Walden, Cleveland robber recently wanted in Philadelphia for murder.

ENTERED STORE

Rosso was captured after he and a companion had been driven from a general store near the farm where he was captured. The owner of the store heard the men as they discarded their prison uniforms for overalls from his shelves and opened the door. He said he believed a posse took up his trail. Searchers had no indication of the direction taken by the other fugitive.

McDermott and Jacko were first sighted by Charles Gardner, who overtook them in a truck after they had stolen his automobile. He notified authorities, who trailed them to a power house in a rock quarry. The deputies found them crouching at the head of a stairway, and captured them without difficulty.

Warden Preston E. Thomas fixed direct responsibility for the escape on one of two guards assigned to watch the cell tiers through the night.

SIR AUSTEN APPROVES SIR ESME'S STATEMENT

London—(P)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, Wednesday put the stamp of his official approval upon the recent statement in Washington by Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States. In this statement Sir Esme explained the probable course of future Anglo-American negotiations in naval disarmament.

The chief of the foreign service, speaking in the house of commons, said that the ambassador had uttered personal views without receiving instructions from home. But he repeatedly told questioners that there was no contradiction between the Washington statement and a communication issued from Downing street last Thursday.

He emphasized that the communication was intended solely to correct mistaken inferences drawn from the ambassador's correct statement in Washington.

LAKE DIVERSION CASE UP AGAIN ON MARCH 25

Chicago—(P)—Formal hearings to determine how long Chicago may retain Lake Michigan water for sewage purposes, will begin here March 25 before Charles Evans, 11 chief as master in chancery.

This was the only announcement at the conclusion of the preliminary meeting Tuesday between Mr. Hughes and counsel for the Chicago Sanitary district, the state of Illinois and states opposing the diversion. Wisconsin was represented by Herman L. Ekern and R. T. Jackson.

Milwaukee Mayor Helps Launch German Vessel

Hamburg, Germany—(P)—The Hamburg American Line's new 17,000-ton liner, Milwaukee, was launched Wednesday by Mayor Daniel W. Wilson of the Wisconsin city, assisted by Mrs. Hoan who christened the ship with a bottle of champagne to which an American flag had been tied.

The ceremony was presided over by a large crowd of natives of Milwaukee and traveling abroad. They gave the mayor an ovation.

It was 12 hours before noon Central time that there was a great splash as the liner slipped from the ways and floated in the water. The ship's slipway was recovered water as the vessel began the dry-dock. Cheers, whistles and thousands of German flags were seen.

The vessel will be driven by four 6,000-horsepower engines and will have a speed of 15 knots.

In launching the ship, Mayor Hoan said:

"We know that this new liner will carry more than 1,000 passengers and will help to establish a closer relationship between our two great nations, and that the hearts of all who sail on her will be united by the fact that she is a ship which belongs to the people of Milwaukee."

The ceremony of Milwaukee was highly honored and deeply gratified that this magnificent liner was named Milwaukee. We have a city of 300,000 Hamburg, nearly half of which are of German parentage. The distinction you thus have given us touches our hearts. The ship is a symbol of the friendship between our cities, for the first time in its entire history, has an official delegation to a foreign country. May this vessel inspire the people of the earth to strive after peace and brotherhood and to work for the good of all mankind."

Mrs. Hoan then broke the champagne bottle on the ship's bow.

Slayer Caught

Pat McDermott, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Don R. Mellett, who was recaptured early Wednesday after he had escaped Tuesday from Ohio state prison.

Many Hurt In Panic On Tube Train

900 Rush Hour Commuters Terrorized When Cars Are Filled With Smoke

New York—(P)—A train loaded with 900 rush hour commuters caught fire in the Hudson tubes Tuesday night, causing a panic in which scores were injured, six seriously, as passengers fought their way out of smoke-filled cars.

Fourteen persons remained in hospitals Wednesday recovering from the effects of inhaling smoke or injuries suffered when they were knocked down and trampled in the surging mass of hysterical humanity seeking escape.

Officials of the Hudson and Manhattan railroad, in a statement blamed the fire on a short circuit in a power cable. Passengers, however, said they saw flames on the track ahead of the train.

As the train came to a stop this dark smoke of burning insulation rapidly filled the cars. Hot flames shot between the second and third cars. The lights went out.

A wave of fear swept over the tightly packed passengers caught in the smoke laden darkness. The first movement was toward both the front and rear of the train as passengers nearest the fire scrambled for safety.

Murmurs of amazement rose to shouts and hysterical cries. Then came the crash of glass as passengers began breaking windows seeking air.

The flicker of flame showing through the car windows started the stampede for the doors. Shouts of alarm and others for order mingled with the screams and groans of those thrown down and stepped on as the fractured passengers, coughing and choking battled towards the doors.

Police and firemen penetrated the tube by an emergency entrance and began assisting the passengers from the tunnel and lifting them. As they were brought out all of them were seen to have cuts, bruises, hands and clothing blackened with soot and smoke.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL UP IN SENATE MONDAY

Washington—(P)—The senate Wednesday agreed to take up the bill for the reapportionment of House of representatives at a session next Monday.

FEDERAL BODY ASKED TO PUT O. K. ON PLANS

Baltimore and Ohio and Van Sweringen Outline Plans Before Commission

BILLIONS ARE INVOLVED

13,000 Miles in Van Sweringen Project—B. and O. Would Purchase Others

Washington—(P)—Two attempts to bring about huge scale railroad consolidations in eastern trunk line territory have been initiated before the Interstate Commerce commission. The first was that of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad which Tuesday asked the commission to approve steps it may take to expand its present system by the acquisition of a half a score of other trunk lines. The second came Wednesday and was made by the Van Sweringen interests.

Even the vast of the previous railroad amalgamations projected by the Cleveland group was exceeded in the proposals, which named for complete partial consolidation not only the several important rail systems commonly identified as Van Sweringen property, but also a half score other lines, some now owned by hostile and opposing railroad organizations.

Specifically the commission was asked to find that the public interest would be served by the "grouping or unification" of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, a main Van Sweringen stem, with the Erie, Nickel Plate, Erie, Marquette, and Hocking Valley systems, all now Van Sweringen owned; while in addition should be added the Wheeling and Lake Erie, only partly Van Sweringen owned, and five lines now entirely independent—Virginia, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Pittsburg and Shawmut, and the Pittsburg, Shawmut and Northern. The single rail system to be thus created would operate roughly 13,000 miles of line, and would represent a capital investment of $2,500,000,000. Further, the commission was asked to secure for such a huge enterprise the right to make a one-fourth interest in the Delaware and Hudson, Lehigh and New England, Lehigh and Hudson River, Montclair railroad, Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghiogheny, Chartiers Southern, Monongahela, Pittsburg and West Virginia lines east of the Ohio, and the west side belt of Pittsburg.

The Baltimore and Ohio requested permission to purchase the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, the Washington, Annapolis and the Buffalo and Susquehanna railroads. It also asked permission for complete acquisition of the Western Maryland, the Reading, the Central railroad of New Jersey and the Lehigh and Hudson River.

WANT THIRD INTEREST

As to the Pittsburg and West Virginia line west of the Ohio, the Van Sweringen group was slated to take a third interest, in partnership with the New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio. The Detroit and Toledo Shore line was suggested for half and half division between the new merger and the Baltimore and Ohio. While the proposed consolidation contemplates the existing of the eastern rail map on the principal of creating a system in the country's north-central quarter, it was expected to end a major controversy among political groups concerned.

Senators O. P. and M. J. Sweringen of Cleveland, began in 1915 the movement of extensive rail proposals. A federal statute has advanced the program of consolidating 51 separate rail systems of the country into 13 or 14 giant mergers. The Van Sweringens, though turned down by the commission in a recent attempt to link up several of their roads, obtained approval for fusing the Erie Marquette with the Chesapeake and Ohio, and with the Nickel Plate into a sizable system by the inclusion of several smaller lines.

AGREEMENT OF COURT IS ASKED BY KELLOGG

Washington—(P)—A suggestion has been made by Secretary Kellogg to the world court nations that a formal exchange of views between the nations might lead to an agreement upon some provision which in an amicable form would protect the rights and interests of the United States as an adherent to the court statute.

In an elaborate note delivered Tuesday to the representatives of the world court nations Mr. Kellogg said the proposed protocol regarding adherence of the United States, adopted by these nations in 1928 would not furnish a adequate protection of the rights and interests of this country. There seemed to be little difference regarding the substance of these rights and interests, he said.

County Board Tackles Problems Of Snow Removal

DEBATES PLAN OF BOOSTING FUND $15,000

Supervisor Laabs Leads Fight to Meet Wednesday Afternoon

By an overwhelming vote, in the face of determined opposition from a few members, the county board recessed Wednesday noon until Wednesday afternoon when the all-important matter of snow removal will come up for discussion.

Supervisor August Laabs of the town of Grand Chute led the fight for the afternoon session.

"We are here to devote our time to the best interests of the taxpayers and I am willing to work nights, if necessary, to do so," he said. "We have an important matter to discuss and will need plenty of time to do so. Thursday, despite my efforts to have this board order the highway committee to report on expenditures for grease and oil during the past year, my motion was killed."

"Supervisor Fred Slevert reported to us that $19,000 worth of this commodity had been purchased during the past year and that too much had been paid for it. If this is true we should know about it and our people should be given facts and figures. As it is now the taxpayers can assume that the board doesn't care to look into this matter."

At this point Supervisor Laabs moved that the highway committee be instructed to bring in a detailed report, not later than Thursday morning, of the oil and grease purchased during the past year. An attempt by Supervisor Anton Jansen to extend the time for making the report to the April session was lost. Supervisor Laabs said he would prepare the report himself if necessary. The board passed his resolution.

EXPECT HOT SESSION

Wednesday afternoon's session promises to be a hot one. Practically the entire session will be given over to discussion of the highway committee's resolution asking for an additional appropriation of $15,000 for snow removal purposes. The $25,000 fund appropriated last November has been exhausted.

Supervisor Laab's fight to have the board meet at an afternoon session led to a stinging criticism of the board for holding short sessions, such as was held Tuesday morning, when there is so much important business to be transacted. Several supervisors immediately examined the supervisor's criticisms by pointing out that they had been spending every afternoon at committee meetings.

The first step toward providing free physical examinations for pupils of the rural schools of Outagamie county was taken by the board Wednesday morning when it instructed Chairman Mike Mack to appoint a committee of six, including the superintendent of schools, district attorney, and county nurse, to investigate a proposal by the Outagamie County Medical Society to carry on the examinations.

Dr. V. F. Marshall placed the medical society's proposition before the board. He said the county would be laid out in districts and the children would be systematically examined and detailed records of the results would be kept. He said that the charge for this work would be $3 an hour for the examining physician and $1 allowance for mileage. In all, he estimated, $1,000 would be more than enough for the work.

FRAISES HEALTH MOVE

The doctor pointed out that with proper organization and system the results of these examinations would be much better. Dr. Charles Reinbeck and Dr. D. M. Gallagher were members of the medical society committee which presented the matter to the board. Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, pronounced the medical society's offer as one of the finest she has ever known. She pointed out that it would be the best move in the drive to insure the health of county children. She said that for years it has been the aim of the health officials to provide some means of examination for rural school children. With five dissenting votes the county board adopted a resolution offered by Supervisor T. H. Ryan, Appleton, authorizing the buildings and grounds committee to engage an architect to prepare a sketch of the proposed addition to the old courthouse or the new courthouse. The architect also is to survey the grounds with the view of determining where the proposed addition or new building will be located. Supervisor Ryan's resolution says the plans and sketch should provide for a population of 100,000 which this county will have attained at the time it is built.

Supervisor Ryan pointed out that this survey is but a step in the right direction. He said that adoption of the resolution merely meant that when the board met in April it would have an opportunity to know what will be needed.

Supervisors Diderich, Grafmeyer, Powers, Streich and Drephal voted against the measure.

MAN FOUND SLEEPING UNDER BED FACES COURT

Hurley—(P)—For a little nap he took under the bed of Charles Noren, iron-co clerk, Joseph Richards was given an option of paying a fine of $125 and costs or spending 30 days in the iron-co jail.

He was arraigned before Judge J. E. Fladren Tuesday on charge of violating three sections of the city charter. The charges included creating an improper disturbance, abusive conduct and an attempt to assault.

Noren discovered Richards under his bed last Thursday morning. He overpowered his unwitting guest and turned him over to the officers. Richards told the officers that he did not know how he gained entrance to the Noren apartment and could not tell how long he had been sleeping under the bed before he was discovered.

MAN RUINS JAIL; GETS SENTENCE FOR DISTURBING PEACE

1. Ruined the jailhouse system and nearly flooded the cell block.
2. Fought so viciously tear gas was necessary to subdue him.
3. Tore the lighting system apart, darkening the prison.

He is now serving a sixty day term in the Jefferson county jail for disturbing the peace.

START ATTEMPT TO RECOVER $43,000 FROM OUTAGAMIE-CO

Council Board Will Approach County to Seek Settlement

An attempt to recover approximately $43,000 from the county will be made by Appleton, it was indicated by the common council Wednesday night.

This figure represents the proportion of the bank stock tax collected by the city and remitted to the county as part of the city's share of county taxes.

Preliminary action in the attempted collection was referred to the board of public works with instructions to try and obtain a settlement of the claim with the county. The board will report its progress to the council before any further action is attempted. If no settlement is reached, the council will then determine whether to institute litigation against the county.

It is not probable that the city will ask for this amount in cash. Instead, the suggestion probably will be made that the county give the city credit for this amount.

Outlining the fundamental facts of the case for the council Wednesday night, A. C. Bossier, city attorney, said he believed the city stood a good chance of recovering this sum.

His reference to the recent cases won by Fond du Lac and Ripon against Fond du Lac, adding that the circumstances surrounding those cases are similar to those here.

Both actions were for writs of mandamus against the county treasurer. The writs were allowed by Judge Fowler of Fond du Lac, whose decisions were affirmed by the Supreme court, according to Mr. Bossier.

Appleton, it is recalled, had to return to local banks more than $100,000 it had collected in bank stock tax over a period of four or five years. This city ordinarily pays something more than 40 per cent of the county taxes. Consequently the city is asking that this amount be recovered from the county.

COMPETITION EASES ARITHMETIC DOSES

Like putting a pink coating on a bad-tasting pill, the daily dose of arithmetic in the sixth grade at Jefferson school is being given with the sweet-tasting syrup of competition.

The class has been divided into four teams, A, B, C and D, with seven pupils on each team. Points are given for speed and accuracy in the completion of a set of arithmetic exercises and at the end of the race the winning team will be entertained at a party given by the losing team.

REVIVE BLAST ACTIVITY OF CONCERN AT ASHLAND

Ashland—(P)—Thousands of dollars will be expended and 50 to 150 men will be employed by A. E. Appleyard, Minneapolis capitalist, who was given control of the blast furnace here, idle for years, by the Ashland-co board of supervisors in a special session Tuesday.

Mr. Appleyard announced that plans have been made to do approximately a $1,000,000 business a year, of which about 50 per cent will be for the payroll. He also said that machinery amounting to about $350,000 will be installed in the furnace buildings.

Mr. Appleyard intends to develop the furnace plant in connection with the Black Granite company of Ashland, where building stone is quarried. The stone will be shipped to the plant for finishing. A heat will be purchased by the company to be used for lake shipping of stone.

Students Editing News 'Hot Off The Wire' Now

Madison—(P)—The following story was sent over the state Tuesday by the University of Wisconsin Press Bulletin:

Students in copyreading and headline writing in the School of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin are now editing news "hot off the wire." With the installation of a Morkrum telegraph printer at the beginning of the second semester the class is now receiving the full Associated Press wire and news from all over the world clicks in all day long in the copy room of the school.

Through The Associated Press wires the class is but three minutes removed from London, Paris, Berlin or Buenos Aires, only seven minutes from Tokio or Shanghai and only a few seconds from any other cities in the United States.

The telegraph printer, an almost human machine, translates the telegraphic code report into typewritten copy at the rate of about 20,000 words a day. The classes in copyreading, working in small sections under the direction of Prof. Kenneth E. Olson, edit the news dispatches as fast as they come in, write headlines as called for by the news editor and make up each day a complete newspaper. The wire service is also supplemented by local news written by students on assignments for the two local newspapers.

Conditions on the copy desk are made as much like those on an actual metropolitan paper as is possible. Students put out several editions each day.

Other sections set up the headlines in type in the typographic laboratory and make up skeleton newspapers. Proofs of these papers are checked each day with newspaper receiving the same wire service. To compare treatment of the news with that accorded by the newspapers.

The school of journalism at the University of Wisconsin was the first in the country to employ a telegraph Morkrum for class instruction. The plan was tried for the first time three years ago.

WISCONSIN NEEDS MORE INDUSTRIES, WOMEN ARE TOLD

Mrs. Vilas Suggests That Men Manage Business Affairs

Pleading for cooperation in bringing new industries into Wisconsin, so that the industrial and the agricultural life of one state can develop together, Mrs. Katherine Garland Vilas, director of the Women's bureau of the Wisconsin Manufacturers association, Madison, addressed a joint meeting of the Appleton Women's club and the Appleton Business and Professional Woman's society at Hotel Northern Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Vilas pointed out the difference between the economic world of today, when practically everything we wear and eat is a product of some factory, and the world of our grandmothers, when each home represented a small industrial center. Stating that Wisconsin is now tenth in the list of industrial states in the country, the speaker gave statistics showing the amount of manufacturing done in the state each year. In 1920 the value of manufactured products in Wisconsin was $1,800,000,000 and farm products in the same census were valued at $780,000,000. About 250,000 persons in industry, which means that approximately 1,000,000 people are directly dependent upon the wages paid by industry, which amount to $15 million dollars annually. In conjunction with the presentation of these figures, she pointed out the effect upon a community when an industry leaves a town.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Statistics about the women employed in America showed that at the $5,000,000 women in the United States, one-fourth or 8,500,000 are employed. Of these, 6,000,000 are unmarried. Mrs. Vilas told of the laws governing the hours of employment for women, and pointed out that cutting down the hours of work for the women employed at present can have no effect upon the unemployment situation.

"Women's hourly wages have increased 150 per cent," said the speaker. "The weekly increase has been 123 per cent, and their hours of work have decreased from 50.8 per cent a week to 43.5 per cent. The increase in wages has exceeded the increase in the cost of living."

Mrs. Vilas then told of the improved attitude toward the welfare of employees, how large manufacturing concerns provide group life insurance, safety methods, constructive health programs, first aid rooms, rest periods; elaborate rest rooms, and during working hours see that there is good ventilation, good lighting and comfortable equipment. She said of the practice of holding round table discussions to which any worker may bring his problems, and

MACHINE GUNS IN WISCONSIN TABOO UNDER THIS BILL

Madison—(P)—Because he knows at least two machine guns are being harbored by residents of Madison's "Little Sicily," Senator Glenn D. Roberts, former Dane-co district attorney, is having a bill drafted which would make it an offense against the law for anyone to possess such a firearm.

Senator Roberts said no person should want a machine gun for other purposes than taking of human life. He called attention to the use of machine guns by Chicago gangsters in their liquor warfare and the recent slaying of a Kenosha man by a person who riddled him with machine gun bullets as he walked a quiet street.

TO FETE NATIONAL Y SECRETARY AT DINNER

Plans for a dinner to be given at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:15 Wednesday evening, Feb. 27, in honor of A. E. Roberts, New York, National association secretary, are completed, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary. Mr. Roberts will discuss national and state Y. M. C. A. problems. He will be accompanied by Guy V. Aldridge, state Y. secretary, who also will give an address. The meeting is especially for association directors, members of the employed staff, and members of the association.

of the good fellowship clubs organized in some concerns.

Mrs. Vilas, in cautioning the women to think twice before they endorsed legislative bills concerning industrial problems, advised that women permit men, who have grown up in business and industry and are "business wise," manage the industrial affairs of the nation.

"They are specialists, we are amateurs," she said. "They are looking toward keeping up employment; they are trying to hold hours of labor at the right point where there will not be over fatigue, and yet there will be production which will give the worker a good wage."

HISTORICAL GROUP WANTS OLD RECORDS

Outagamie-co Towns Invited to Send Documents to Madison for Safekeeping

Chairmen of town boards of Outagamie-co have been invited by Joseph Schafer, superintendent of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, to send to the society any old records of the town which are not in current use and which they desire to deposit for safe keeping and possible historical use in the State Historical library at Madison. The invitation was read to the county board at its meeting this week and town chairmen were asked to take the matter up with the town boards at the spring meeting.

Mr. Schafer pointed out that the historical society is authorized by

CHILD CAUGHT COLD; PNEUMONIA FEARED

Worried Mother Grateful as Doctor Shows How to Give Quick Relief at Home

No longer is it necessary to stand by helplessly when children's colds bring fear of pneumonia. For hospital physicians now recommend to mothers a pleasant home treatment for colds—and hundreds of children have been given the same quick, sure relief that came to the little daughter of Mrs. Robt. Gordon.

Little Estelle caught a severe cold while out riding. On the third day the child coughed so deep Mrs. Gordon feared pneumonia, and called her doctor, who advised double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—the pleasantly flavored mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrates and other ingredients.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

SKEPTICAL EYE IS CAST ON LATEST CHICAGO REFORM

Nation Watches With Distrust as Second Dry Move Gets Under Way

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Chicago—The nation now can turn an eye on the attempt of this city to close her saloons—the second serious attempt to dry up the town since the eighteenth amendment went into effect.

The first effort broke a mayor and gave Chicago her present administration. He did not have a state's attorney to lend support in the courts. This move is backed by a state's attorney with some doubt about the attitude of the mayor and the police department.

What effect this attack on the open saloon is to have remains to be seen. Two days of trial indicate, according to investigators, that liquor still flows in more than a dribble locally. Even the observance of Sunday closing was said to have been far from complete.

But the same popular demand that caused the rejection of a mayor who sought to enforce the law, now calls for a move against the saloons. The massing of the "Pugs" Moran gang was a bit too much for the city's sensibilities.

Former Mayor William E. Dever, though himself opposed to prohibition, saw the troubles that were developing through beer wars and set about drying up the town. The nation followed his attempt. Everyone agreed that it was honestly made, but received little support from other agencies of the government. The attempt became so unpopular that when William Hale Thompson told the people that he proposed to "stop frisking pantries and pounding mattresses," they elected him with a whoop.

OPEN POLICY UNPOPULAR
Now that policy is fully as unpopular as the closed town policy of the Dever regime, Mayor Thompson promised that he would open ten thousand new places of business, and few deny that the promise has been carried out. The problem now is to close them.

"There is no warrant in common sense for the existence of the places still commonly called saloons," State's Attorney John A. Swanson declares.

"The speakeasy, the soft drink parlor and the back stairs beer clubs are all rendezvous for the loafer, the thief, the burglar, and are the only sources of income of the beer racketeer, the alcohol agent and the wholesale bootlegger. Those rascals will not linger in a community which does not support them."

The attempt now being made calls for starving out the gangs which supply the city with liquor, by cutting off their retail outlets. It depends largely on how active the city police are in backing the state's attorney.

Judge Swanson holds a whip hand which former mayor Dever did not have. He promises prosecution and jail for the police officers who fail to observe his edict.

The public, which is clamoring for some sort of action, watches the states attorney's experiment with a hopeful but somewhat doubtful eye. Past experience has given them little encouragement in looking for a clean-up.

DON'T USE TWO STAMPS WHEN ONE CAN BE USED

The use of one-half cent postage stamps, except on mail matter where a fractional postage rate applies, will be discouraged by the federal postal department according to a bulletin received at the postoffice.

Some manufacturers, the bulletin says, use two one-half cent stamps in place of a single one-cent stamp to give their matter the appearance of first class mail when it is really third-class mailing.

The heavy demand for half cent stamps in recent months, apparently for advertising purposes, has exhausted the department's stock, causing delay in filling regular postoffice orders specifically needed for fractional rate mailings. Postmasters are instructed to order only enough one-half cent stamps as are needed to fill regular orders.

The item of economy in the manufacture of one-half cent stamps is a big one and for this reason the department refuses to sanction the use of two or more stamps to meet a specified postage rate when single stamps of the proper value are available.

LAWRENCE TEAMS WILL DEBATE AT GREEN BAY

Two Lawrence debate teams will present the affirmative and negative arguments in the question, "Resolved, That the public should retain ownership of, develop and operate, the principal sources of hydroelectric power in the United States," before the Green Bay Lions club at Green Bay Wednesday noon. # LENTEN FOODS PROMINENT ON MENUS OF CITY

People abstaining from meats during lent have their choice of a variety of other foods in local shops. Restauranters also have changed their menus so that it is possible for people who "eat out" at noon, to select from a variety of special lenten foods.

Sea foods which are the most popular during lent, are abundant this year and may be obtained at local meat markets, grocery stores and restaurants. They include fish, lobsters, shrimp and oysters. Salmon is one of the most popular foods in restaurants.

Fresh eggs and cheese are in demand at all times of the day, according to restauranters. People also are eating "fresh vegetables of every kind, and ask for special dishes. Local grocery dealers report that they are selling more fresh vegetables now than before lent started last Wednesday.

LAWRENCE DEBATERS DEFEAT MARQUETTE

With a more comprehensive grasp of the situation than their opponents, the Lawrence affirmative debate team won the decision in the debate against Marquette university at Peabody hall Monday evening. The same expert judge, Prof. Leonard Burrows, of the Stevens Point state teachers college, awarded the Lawrence team 100 points and the Marquette men 93 points.

The Lawrence team was made up of Robert Beggs of Pensacola, Fla., and William Heerman, Sheboygan. The question debated was "Resolved that the public should retain ownership of, develop and operate, the principal sources of hydroelectric power in the United States."

The Marquette team which debated here Monday night will leave soon on a debate trip through eastern Canada.

MUSIC NOT REQUIRED FOR ALL STUDENTS

Madison—(P)—School music is not one of the subjects the statutes require school boards to give for all students and the board therefore does not have to vote funds for a school band or any other musical organization or institution, said an opinion from the attorney general to John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction. The opinion, however, held that if the voters of the district want a school band, they can vote to instruct the school board to provide one and if the board does not do this, the electors can vote in a new board.

Regains Health After 8 Years

Had Almost Given Up Hope Of Ever Being Well Again, She Says.

"After eight years struggle to regain my health I had about given up hope of ever again being well—then Sargon restored me. My husband says that if this wonderful medicine cost $10 a bottle, it would be worth it."

"An operation in 1921 left me in such a bad condition that my husband has since spent hundreds of dollars trying to restore my health. I was terribly thin and nervous and so weak I'd often have to spend days in bed. Most of the time could not retain my food and I'd have spots before my eyes and be dreadfully dizzy for hours. I suffered two breakdowns just recently.

"My husband always was trying to help me and it was he who insisted I take Sargon. After the third bottle I had gained 12 pounds. I'm not nervous any more and I eat anything now and thoroughly relish my food. I am stronger than for ten years and my housework has become a pleasure."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are just simply wonderful. They don't grip or nauseate and are dependable. The Sargon treatment surely was a God send for me."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. E. T. House, 230 Ninth Ave., Wauwatosa, Wis. Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Bauer.

An address, Education for World Citizenship will be delivered on Wednesday by President A. O. Thomas of the World Federation of Education.

"Whoopie" Hats Prove Inconsistency Of Man

The inconsistency, inconsistency, and inconsistency in man's behavior is a well known fact. Woman has known it for a long time, but it took her a long time to point her finger in scorn and laugh up her sleeve at the twentieth century wisecrack that woman is stampeding man's territory.

They call them "whoopie" hats, and they're red, green, gray, blue, and white, and every self-respecting haberdasher will tell you that "only the college boys seem to be filling for them." But to woman, the display of bright colored men's hats in a College ave. clothing store means but one thing—the ominous samplings of a return to the ruffled collar, button bedecked velvet breeches of colonial days. If man has lost his dignity and his pride in masculinity to the point where he will leave his somber grays and browns and top his nutty form with a riot of color, he's started tobogganing back to the elaborate dress of Queen Elizabeth's time. And if the bill is steep enough, and the toboggan fast enough, the tide is going to be interesting—at least for the woman observer.

35 NEW STUDENTS ENTER LAWRENCE

Noticeable Decrease Is Noted in Mortality Rate Among Freshmen

Approximately 35 new students have enrolled at Lawrence college for the second semester, according to registration figures issued by Olm A. Made, registrar. This makes up for losses sustained by student withdrawals at the end of the first semester.

The decrease in student mortality is especially noticeable in the freshman class since there are more freshmen enrolled at the beginning of the second semester, 1929, than there were enrolled in September, 1927. Allowing for average mortality in June these figures point to one of the largest sophomore classes in the history of the college.

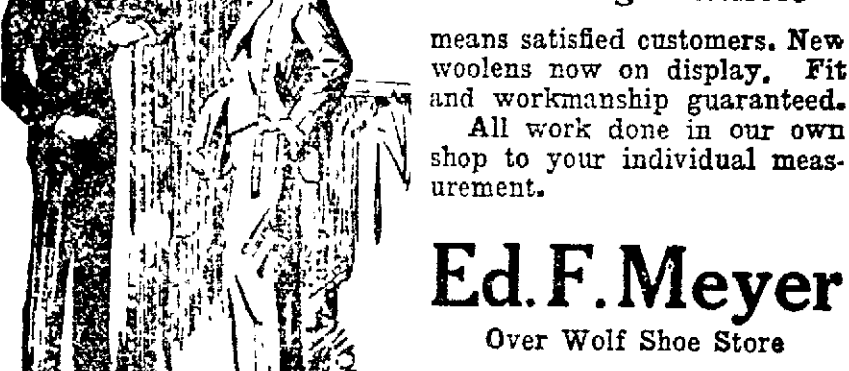

This decreased mortality among freshmen is attributed to the increased enrollment in the fall and the high scholastic calibre of the class as evidenced by the fact that one-tenth of the entering freshmen had high school averages above 92 and one-third had averages above 85. Exclusive of entering students the enrollment of the college with much approximately 500.

THE PROHIBITION DEBATE
Senators Reed and Borah are engaged in debating prohibition. We thought that it had been debated sufficiently for a time during the presidential campaign. Those who defend the eighteenth amendment can not be convinced of the error of their ways more than can those who uncompromisingly denounce it. There is an impasse at the very beginning. Most of these orators who debate the subject like to hear themselves, and imagine the country does the same. They get nowhere, and they are not helpful in promoting a sound solution of the questions created by prohibition. They represent the two extremes, neither of which is unprejudiced and likely to be right.

There is no more prejudiced and bigoted man in the senate than Mr. Reed. He seldom makes a restrained or level-headed declaration touching any matter of public policy. He is as unreliable as the winds. No one can place any real confidence in what he says or advocates. And Mr. Borah is quite as fanatical in his advocacy of prohibition. He has far greater balance on most questions than Mr. Reed, but on the liquor issue he holds strong views.

We get nowhere by staging controversies of the kind these two senators are now indulging. There is nothing constructive in their point of view or suggestions. We will never solve the prohibition problem through such devices. Senator Reed wants to repeal the eighteenth amendment and go back to state regulation of liquor traffic. Mr. Borah says he is not opposed to repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment or of the Volstead act, provided a better way for handling the liquor problem can be devised that appears to be rational and appeals to common sense. He will not admit, however, that state regulation, the Canadian system or any other alternative is the remedy, so that we have a deadlock.

Mr. Borah is nevertheless right when he says obedience to and honest effort to maintain the constitution are "infinitely more important than the question of liquor or no liquor." He is right when he says that the law abiding element of the United States ought to combine to give all the effect possible to the entire constitution, including the eighteenth amendment. To do otherwise is to undermine not only the principle but the very existence of government.

There is only one real test of constitutional government and that is the willingness of the people who themselves write the constitution be bound by it and to uphold it. We cannot get away from this proposition. To argue that because another provision of the constitution is not lived up to 100 per cent the eighteenth amendment should be ignored or defied or nullified at pleasure is no answer. Two wrongs never make a right, and this theory merely carries the violation of the constitution a step further.

The prohibition question is confined simply to ways and means for the best control of the liquor traffic. On this up to the present time the prohibitionists and the opposition are hopelessly at odds. There does not appear to be any middle ground on which they can unite. Neither appears to be willing to make any concessions. This, after all, is not the way to approach the sound disposition of a great problem. But over and above the issue of prohibition is that of constitutional government, and that we cannot escape.

$9000 FOR CATS
Relatives of a Boston spinster, who recently died and left a fund of $9000 for the benefit of her three cats, are fighting in court to break the will. Most people will agree that any woman should have the right to do what she wants to with her own money. Yet a $9000 legacy for cats does seem a bit out of proportion. At a time when so many people are in actual want, the setting up of a trust fund to keep these felines in milk and salmon hardly strikes a popular chord.

CHICAGO'S DIVERSION SCHEME

Charles Evans Hughes, in pursuance to a mandate from the supreme court, will in Chicago preside over a conference between representatives of the sanitary district and attorneys for the eight states which are seeking to prevent diversion of lake water. The lake states demand that Chicago be prohibited from diverting any water from the lake for sanitary purposes. They are supported in this by the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States, which upholds the orders of the war department that the sanitary district complete sewage reduction works at the earliest possible date and discontinue withdrawing water from Lake Michigan for drainage purposes.

How Chicago is to do this is of no concern of the lake states, as is pointed out by their representatives. It is Chicago's problem and not their problem. It is a matter of universal knowledge that the Sanitary district is a corrupt, incompetent, discredited body. Its trustees have, to use the language of the Chicago Tribune, shown themselves to be "dishonest, wasteful and stupid." They have, the Tribune continues, demonstrated a degree of misfeasance and malfeasance "difficult to exaggerate."

This is the body which is before Special Master-in-Chancery Hughes to defend Chicago's excessive and unjustified diversion of lake water. Surely its court standing cannot be good. The question as to whether Chicago is entitled to divert water for a barge canal to the Illinois and Mississippi rivers is wholly extraneous. That is a separate matter not involved in the present proceedings and it is a question for congress to determine. Chicago has willfully, and one may say maliciously, delayed the construction of sewage disposal works while reveling in corruption and graft. Even though it has been licensed to divert water it is doing so under sufferance, and it is delaying in providing reduction works. As a contemptuous attitude toward the rights of others it amounts to moral theft of water, and the states have every right to demand that Chicago put an end to this performance.

DETROIT'S ACCIDENT CAMPAIGN

The way in which traffic fatalities can be materially cut down if police and court authorities really put their minds to it is evidenced by what has been done in Detroit.

At the beginning of 1928, Detroit launched an intensive campaign to reduce accidents. It put on extra police, had motorcycle officers patrol all streets regularly, did away with light sentences in the courts and, with the backing of the newspapers, tried to educate driver and pedestrian to the importance of what was being tried.

The result? Detroit's traffic deaths in 1928 were 20 per cent under the total in 1927. Yet in the nation as a whole the total was two per cent higher than in the preceding year.

It takes effort and it costs money, of course. But our traffic casualty list is a shame, and any remedy that produces results is a good one. Other cities might do well to copy Detroit.

There are said to be two "dangerous periods" in the day when factory accidents are most liable to happen—between 9:30 a. m. and 10 a. m., and between 4:30 p. m. and 5 p. m.

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

I see by the papers where a bill would require all Wisconsin residents to apply for fishing licenses. Now, if the object is to make money why not fall back on the good old flar's license for fishermen. 'Twould bring in a lot more money, and the fishermen shouldn't object. It would have to be understood, however, that a flar's license must be charged—and not according to the quality of the fish. Otherwise too many people would be bankrupt.

SOSA ON WET FEET AND THE FLU

John Philip Sousa, the famous bandman tells in his charming autobiography, "Marching Along," of a trip he made by horseback from Hot Springs, Va., late in February. River and mountain still blanketed with snow, cakes of ice in the water; winter chill in the air. The genial Sousa and his companion stopped at a plantation for lunch. There Sousa was amazed to behold three or four youngsters playing barfoot and thinly clad. He warned their mother that the children were likely to contract pneumonia from such exposure. There's where the March King spoke out of turn. That Virginia mother was fully capable of telling him he was not keeping time. Here is her reply as the composer of Washington Post gives it:

"Don't you worry," said the mother. "A fool man came along here 'bout two years ago and talked just as you are talking and we got plumb scared and Jim (that's my husband) hitched up his team and drove 60 miles to Staunton to buy the little fellow a pair of shoes and stockings. When he got back it was snowing hard and I put the shoes and stockings on the little boy's feet. He went out to play in the snow, got his feet wet and that night he died of croup. My mother took off the wet shoes and stockings, dosed him with kerosene and made him run around outside in the snow for an hour. That cured him. No more shoes for him, nuther. I ain't a-going to risk their health with no such foolishness. Why, man, they slides on the ice in Jackson river in their bare feet. I love 'em too much to let 'em take any cold with 'em."

Sousa merely records the incident and leaves the reader to make his own inferences. Mine is that the Virginia mother knew her hygiene. A little later, when Sousa was leading the naval reserve band, the treasury department sent the band to various cities to help out over the liberty loan. But the great flu epidemic was raging and the band was held in quarantine for a time. Finally they were allowed to start the trip, but before they entered Dr. Frankel, the battalion surgeon, converted one car into a sick bay and placed the hospital corps in charge. They laid in an ample stock of Dr. Bell's solution and other stores to discourage the "flu." Twice daily the entire command was required to spray nose and throat with diluted Dr. Bell's solution. Sousa says "Every possible means was used to ward off the 'flu,'" but he gives no other details. In his subsequent report to the commandant he said: "We left home with 250 officers and men. Dr. Frankel's fidelity was wonderful; I do not believe the man slept four hours a night."

At the height of the "flu" epidemic after the United States entered the war, a sinking instance came to my mind. At one port of embarkation where thousands of troops awaited ships, there was just one company that escaped the "flu" entirely and the medical corps men in that company had to carbide his Dr. Bell's solution. Under the scrutiny of the medical officer, twice a day from the outbreak of the epidemic. Coincidence, maybe, but an extraordinary one.

SANDING OUR ROADS

Editor Post-Crescent—Our roads are made for the public to use in the winter and summer and were open for cars and horse drawn vehicles until sometime in January 1929. Then along comes a caterpillar tractor with a snow plow on the front end of it and dug the snow off of the pavement down to the cement and threw up a big wall of snow on each side of the road that is fine for automobiles but death to sleighing. Another snow storm came and those two snow walls on each side of the road were just right to catch all of the snow that came that way. No caterpillar tractor for more than a week. The only mode of travel was by horse drawn vehicles.

Our mail carrier cannot use his car because the road is not all plowed down to the cement and gravel. So he has to use his horse to deliver mail. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Of what benefit is plowing that road to that mail carrier. It is a positive damage to him if the mail carrier could load his horse on the hind end of his car and when he struck the snow unload his horse and sleigh and put his mail from the car into sleigh and load the car onto the sleigh and finish the trip. But is that mode of traveling practical? The same problem confronts every farmer.

If a man would sand the road in the sleigh track for ten rods and do it every day during the winter the county highway commissioner would pull him into court and have him fined for obstructing the highway and if he did not stop putting sand in the sleigh tracks, they would lock him up.

But that is just what our highway commissioner is doing to our roads. He don't carry the sand along with his snow plows, but he digs the snow all off of the cement or gravel or sand that is in the road bed. So in effect it amounts to the same thing and it is not ten rods, but 20 miles and we can't put him in jail for doing it.

There is to my mind two ways to stop the highway commissioner from spoiling our roads for winter traffic with sleighs. That is to select men on the county board who don't believe in sanding our road in the winter to make the sleighing better. And the other way is to have the highway commissioner of Outagamie county and the highway committee of Outagamie county take a vacation the first of December until the first of April and let them all go into the jungles of central Africa and let them take their caterpillar tractors along with them to open roads and shoot big game. The county could afford to pay them their regular salary if they would go, but I don't suppose they will go.

OLD NUMBERS GO
Several familiar and historic telephone numbers have been discarded now that Washington is planning to install the dial system.
For years the supreme court of the United States was Main 1. It has always been a matter of pride on the part of many that this number was given to this great branch of the government. But with the new order of things Main 1 will go and Chief Justice Taft may now be reached by calling National 3300.
The White House retains its listing as Main 6, using also trunk lines 4, 5, 7 and 8. But this will not be for long. The historic 6 is due to go, along with the supreme court's cherished number.

POLITICAL REWARD
The Hoover forces apparently have made good the first promise of the presidential campaign. Certainly evidence points that way.

One of the most active workers for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the campaign was Mrs. Jimmy Curtis, a woman socially prominent in Washington. She excited the admiration of every one by her tireless efforts on behalf of the two republican candidates. Day and night she worked, casting aside all social obligations, and concentrating only on the campaign.

One of her friends became curious to know why Mrs. Curtis was working so hard for the election of Hoover.

ver. One day she was bold enough to ask point-blank:

"Laura, what are you expecting from Hoover, if he is elected, for all this work you are doing?"

Mrs. Curtis laughingly replied: "I'm perfectly satisfied if I get a no-parking sign in front of my home."

Well, whether it is significant or not, today in front of the handsome Curtis residence there is a no-parking sign.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
RUTH LESTER, beautiful secretary to "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, becomes engaged to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow airstair from Borden's.

On a Saturday morning in January, Borden has two women callers. The first is RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who is to accompany him for a weekend at Winter Haven. The second caller is MRS. BORDEN, Borden's wife and mother of his two children, who comes for her monthly alimony which the promoter forces her to ask him for in person.

Learning her husband is busy she agrees to return, but before leaving glimpses a pistol in Ruth's desk. Rita leaves and Borden waves goodbye with a torn bank note, reminding her of "handsome Harry."

While Ruth takes dictation, Borden makes a playful pass at her and she screams, attracting Jack's attention in the opposite office. Jack is furious and threatens Borden across the airstair. He is still angry when Ruth meets him for lunch. Ruth forgets her bank book and rushes back to the office where she bruises her lip. Jack believes Borden hurt her but Ruth insists he is wrong. At the luncheon table Jack says he left the tickets on his desk and returns for them. He is gone 20 minutes returning strangely perturbed. This mood persists throughout the matinee and reappears again when he calls Sunday night. At the office Monday morning Ruth goes into Borden's private office with crumbs for pigeons that gather on the window ledge. Her eyes fix in horror on the thing sprawled near the window on the floor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

Slowly, her feet feeling as stiff and cold as the thing that lay on the floor, Ruth Lester backed toward the door which led into her own office, her hand groping for the knob, in a desperate need for something to cling to, for her whole world was whirling madly about her. But her staring, unwinking blue eyes could not tear themselves away from the sight which filled them—the prostrate body of her employer, "Handsome Harry" Borden.

Even in death he looked handsome. His still face, very white against the polished dark brown wood of the floor and in contrast with the sleek blackness of his unruffled hair, was pillowed upon his up-thrust left arm, so that he looked as if he slept. But the rigid stillness of that crumpled body was not the peace of sleep. From beneath the slightly raised right shoulder—he had fallen upon his side—something which had once been warm and red had spurted, forming a dark, irregularly shaped pool, dry now at the edges.

Her groping hand found the door knob and she clung to it, swaying dizzily for a moment. Then, frenzy taking the place of stunned horror, she banged the door open that ghastly sight and staggered across her own office, both hands reaching for the outer door.

When she had come in, she had left it on the latch, so that visitors to the office might gain access and as she let it swing shut behind her fleeing, horror-driven figure, she had the impulse, born of long habit, to click on the latch, so that no one could enter during her absence.

"Nobody can hurt him now. He needn't be afraid of unlocked doors any more," Ruth's mind babbled, crazily, as she ran down the hall, past the suit of offices that lay beyond Borden's turned the corner, raced on.

From the very first moment of discovery there had been only one thing she could do. She must see Jack. The journey along the two corridors had never seemed long to her before, but now she felt as if she would never reach the man she was engaged to, the man who.... But as if something too frightful for contemplation were pushing upward from her sub-conscious mind, she veered her thoughts.

Two men who had offices in Jack's wing of the Starbridge Building looked at the white-faced, running girl, but she did not see them, did not hear one of them call out to her. If she had, she would not have answered. No one! Jack would do now and he.... Oh, no, no!

She found his outer office door closed, but not locked, tore it open gasped out Jack's name to the girl who was calmly opening mail.

"Mr. Hayward? Yes, he's here, or rather, he's in the building. Just stepped out of the office a minute. Won't you wait for him?" Miss Barnes asked, her light-brown eyes taking Ruth in curiously, then with a little raised eyebrow, which betrayed her thought that the engaged couple had quarreled already. "Go"

—oh, What am I to do? The police

—oh, Jack!"

The young man's arms went lax for a moment, then tightened about her so that she gasped for breath. "God! That you had to see it!" His exclamation, uttered on jerky gusts of breath, might mean anything—anything!

Ruth struggled in his arms, had her eyes against her elbow. "My fault! I—I screamed! If only I hadn't screamed, Jack! I won't have to tell the police, will I, Jack? I'll lie! I'll lie, Jack! Nobody will have to know! I'll lie!"

The man seized her roughly, shook her a bit to stop that hysterical babbling. "Shut up, Ruth! Do you hear me?—stop it, I say! You've got to get hold of your nerves, darling! Oh, my God!" he groaned, pressing his cheek hard against the golden curls. "Listen, Ruth! The man deserved to be shot. Hold fast to that, darling! He deserved it, I tell you! There's only one thing for you to remember—that we love each other. Now, we'll go—over there!" and he nodded, his face grim, to the window across the airstair, "and face this thing together. Take my arm, darling. Hold tight!"

The two corridors seemed infinitely long, stretching away like interminable paths in a nightmare, but at last they were in her own office again. She laid her head on her desk, pillowing it on her crossed arms, while Jack, in a brisk, business-like voice, called police headquarters. Fragments of his conversation pierced the swirling chaos of her mind—"Yes, Borden! Egor-don. Harry P. Borden. Murdered in his office, suite 712, the Starbridge Building. This is John C. Hayward speaking. . . Of course I shall stay until police arrive."

As from a distance, Ruth heard him turn the knob of the door which she closed upon the thing which had been "Handsome Harry" Borden. He must be looking . . . Oh, could he? His automatic gone from his mind—"Yes, Borden! Egor-don. Harry P. Borden. Murdered in his office, suite 712, the Starbridge Building. This is John C. Hayward speaking. . . Of course I shall stay until police arrive."

And his arms were about her, steadying her, holding her close against his heart. Her fingers dug into his shoulders. "Mr. Borden! He's—dead! Murdered! Blood, Jack!"

He must be looking . . . Oh, could he? His automatic gone from his mind—"Yes, Borden! Egor-don. Harry P. Borden. Murdered in his office, suite 712, the Starbridge Building. This is John C. Hayward speaking. . . Of course I shall stay until police arrive."

horrible thing of blue steel had been there.

Oh, no, no! Ruth wrenched her mind back, forced it to reconstruct the events of Saturday afternoon. But that, too, was more than her mind could bear, without shuddering away and being dragged back.

Her bruised lip, Jack's white-hot anger against Borden, his refusal to believe that it had not been Borden who had hurt her. . . His threats, insanely uttered in the presence of Mickey Moran, the elevator operator. . . She had had to hold him back with all her strength to keep him from forcing his way into Borden's offices. . .

His declaration that he had forgotten the theater tickets, his return to his office to get them. Had he really forgotten them, or had he intended to do what—oh, she mustn't say it, even to herself! Again that agonized wrenching of her mind, to bring it back to the subject, no matter how horrible it was. . . Had Jack seen Borden across the airstair?

Oh, God, why had the architect set two windows exactly opposite each other, so terribly close? . . . Had Jack furiously delivered an ultimatum to Borden about her? Had they quarreled then, so that Jack's fury became insanity? What easier than to snatch his automatic from the drawer of his desk and fire at Borden, drawn to his own window by the quarrel?

Suddenly Ruth's small body was galvanized with purpose. If Jack had done this thing, he had done it for her—for her! He had committed a deadly sin, but he had done it to protect her. And now, before the police came, she could do something for him.

"Where are you going, Ruth?" Jack demanded harshly. "Stay out of there! It's no sight for your eyes. Stop, I tell you!"

"Oh, let me go!" Ruth sobbed, tearing at his hands. "I've got to go! I've got to do it before the police come! Don't you—understand?"

"Do what? Are you crazy? Please, darling, get control of yourself! It wasn't your fault, really! The man deserved to die!"

"Don't say that again! I can't bear it!" Ruth screamed. "Don't you realize?—I've got to close the window before the police come!"

He let her go, or her strength for the moment was greater than his, for she flung herself upon the connecting door, tore at the knob until it yielded, stepped in—then stumbled backward into Jack's arms.

"The window's closed, Jack! Closed! Do you hear? Closed! Oh, God, I thank thee! Forgive me, Jack!"

There was a loud knock upon the outer door, followed immediately by the turning of the knob. The police had arrived to inquire into the death of "Handsome Harry" Borden.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel,terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service. Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot-spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BEAUTY HINTS

When noon came, Crystal found herself too nauseated after her de bauch of weeping and self-bathed to be able to eat.

By three o'clock she was shivering uncontrollably. Her cheeks were scarlet, her eyes red, and her hands and feet icy. She was sure she had fever. Perhaps, she told herself, she would sicken and die of pneumonia.

By four o'clock it was quite dark in the shack. Her candle supply was running low, since she had been so foolish as burn them all night the night before. At last, when she could bear the darkness no longer, Crystal dragged her aching, shivering body from the morris chair, fumbled along the mantel till she found a stub of candle stuck in its own grease in a saucer, lighted it, and was about to crawl back into the bed when her smarting eyes, roving about the room, caught sight of an old-fashioned oil lamp hanging by chains from the ceiling directly above the table. Country-bred as she was, Crystal was familiar with that type of lamp, knew that it could be pulled down on its double chains, lighted and returned to its position near the ceiling. She wondered how she had failed to notice it before. Perhaps it had oil in it.

"Please God, let there be oil in it. I can't bear the dark. I can't. You know I can't!" Crystal prayed childishly, as she took a thick, round log from the wood box to use as a step by which to clamber upon the table.

As she sprang stiffly to the table top, the log rolled away, so that it lay several feet from the table, but she would not need it in getting down, she told herself. She stood upon the table, swaying dizzily for a moment, before she reached up both hands to grasp the bright, nicked bowl of the lamp. It descended as she pulled, the chain rattling smoothly. But when she shook the bowl there was no answering gurgle. The lamp was empty!

In the girl's fevered brain the calamity assumed enormous proportions. Nothing that had yet happened to her seemed so horrible. The stub of her only candle would last not more than an hour, and it was only half past four now. Crystal was shaking with sheer terror as her icy hands mechanically pushed the lamp toward the ceiling. When it was back in place, she took her hands from the bowl, and turned to jump down from the table. As she turned, however, a dreadful vertigo seized her limbs, swept over her brain. Flinging up her hands wildly, she managed to grasp the bowl of the lamp. As it descended again, she clasped it to her pounding heart, finding the chains strong enough to bear her sagging weight.

Crystal never knew how long she stood there on the table, before her brain cleared sufficiently for her to think again. Why, she might have killed herself if she had fallen! Her head could have struck the log! She might have lain unconscious for hours before help came! ... But—her mind began to function with terrible clarity—if her rescuers had found her unconscious, she could have told them later that she knew nothing of her "kidnapers." "No, not I can't!" Crystal yelled aloud, as the way out of her difficulties became horribly clear to her ...

LETTERING SHEETS
When beds in a home are several sizes it is often hard to pick from freshly laundered sheets, the size to fit a particular bed. A time saver is to letter or number small sheets "one" or "A," three-quarter bed sheets "two" or "B," and full-sized sheets "three" or "C." Put in one upper corner these identifications can be seen easily.

JAPANESE GIRL PIANIST TOURS UNITED STATES

San Francisco—(AP)—The deft fingers of oriental women, famed for fashioning delicate pottery and embroidering silken things, have turned to the piano.

Miss Yolanda Kusakabe is the first musician of the east ever to achieve wide recognition, on the concert stage. She is now in America for the first time and will, within a few weeks, leave for Rome. Miss Kusakabe began the study of music at the age of five, and at 13 was graduated from the Royal Academy of Saint Cecilia, Rome.

Contrary to the old tradition that every artist has spent long hours in practice, Miss Kusakabe reveals that in adolescence she gave only an hour and a half daily to study.

THE water that was rushing down out of the locks brought forth a frown upon the friendly Sea Man's face. In fact it made him rave. Those Trouble Tots though he, are bad. They think it's real fun they have had it'd like to stop and squawk them, but the Times I must save.

Meanwhile, the Tynmites were scared. Grid Clowry, "I hope we'll be spared. This water's almost freezing cold! What makes it rush so fast? Let's try and swim the best we can I rather think the old Sea Man will shortly try to rescue us. Oh, how long will this last?"

"Don't use your breath to talk like that," said Scooty. "Just try lying flat upon the rushing water. It will help us all to float. We may reach ground not far from here." Then little Conny cried, "Oh, dear! Why did this have to happen? I just wish we had a boat."

Women Work For Peace But In Different Ways

BY SUE McNAMARA (Associated Press Feature Writer)

Washington—(AP)—Women are at work on the problem of how to abolish war as they never have been before.

Gone are the days when "women must wait and women must weep." In the last month two big conferences of women, bringing delegates from every state, have met in Washington for the sole purpose of laying Mars flat on his back. Gold star mothers, whose hearts were wrung ten years ago, now sit in conference halls listening to arguments on the best means to avoid future bloodshed.

While the two groups are working from different angles, their purpose is the same. At the head of the women's patriotic conference on national defense is Mrs. Boyce Ficklen of Washington, Ga., young, pretty and the mother of two boys, aged 10 and 16.

At the head of the national council for the cause and cure of war is Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, famed on two continents for her work for suffrage and for peace. Mrs. Catt had just passed her seventieth birthday.

Mrs. Ficklen's group thinks that in adequate national defense lies the only hope of world peace. These women are backing the cruiser bill now before congress. Mrs. Catt and her followers ardently espoused the Kellogg peace pact and think that it offers the best solution. However, they invited an army officer to give the army's views on preparedness.

Mrs. Ficklen, in addition to being chairman of the women's patriotic conference is national president of the American Legion auxiliary, numbering 300,000 women.

"Women should have sentiment, but not sentimentality," says Mrs. Ficklen. "Members of both organizations which I represent have had intimate contact with the horrors of war because most of them are mothers, wives, sisters or daughters of men who have actually engaged in warfare. Many have lost husbands, sons or brothers."

"They, of all women, know war's terrible cost. They feel that national defense—or say security, that is a word I like better—is the only way. We oppose the pacifist propaganda aimed especially at women, which would make them believe that through disarmament without equal concessions on the part of all other nations lies the way to world peace."

Mrs. Ficklen believes she is safeguarding the futures of her boys and those of millions of others in working for adequate national security.

So much has women's interest in peace problems increased that there are now 38 organizations representing 17 million women. The list is headed by the Gold Star Mothers and includes such patriotic societies as American War Mothers, Daughters of American Revolution, Women's Overseas Service League, Women's Relief Corps and many others.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, cream, poached egg on spinach, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Casserole of vegetables, apple and raisin salad, rice, bread and butter, sandwiches, cottage pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Lamb chops, potatoes au gratin, stewed celery and carrots, lettuce with Roquefort cheese dressing, canned green peas, plain cake, milk, coffee.

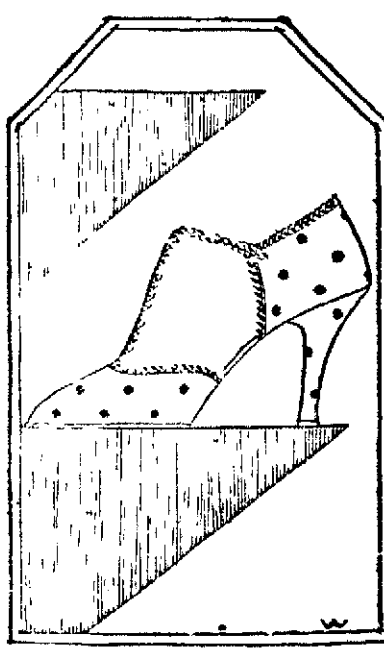

This dinner is planned for the housekeeper's afternoon "out." If the potatoes are cooked and diced in the morning, the whole meal can be prepared in 30 minutes from the time the cook puts on her apron. The cake, of course, was baked in the morning and the lettuce washed and crisped ready to use.

CASSEROLE OF VEGETABLES
One cup dried lima beans, 2 cups diced celery, 1-2 cup minced green pepper, 4 medium-sized onions, 2 cups canned tomatoes, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons butter.

Wash beans and soak over night in cold water to cover. In the morning cook until tender, letting water cook away as much as possible without burning. Drain off surplus water and add celery, pepper, onions peeled and sliced, tomatoes, salt, pepper and butter. Turn into a buttered casserole and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Thin slices of bacon can be arranged over the top before baking and the butter omitted if preferred. (Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)

MONOTONY IN DIET IS UNDESIRABLE

Eat Wide Variety of Foods Sweetened for Enjoyment

If a diet expert could visit every home in the United States and combine all the diet mistakes into one phrase, he would doubtless say, "too monotonous." Food authorities are complaining that the richest nation of the world is sacrificing both health and enjoyment by eating monotonous, unappetizing foods.

There is a remedy that, with a little thought, can be applied in every home. Make a study of all the varied healthful foods, being sure to include milk, eggs, cereals, vegetables, fruits and meats. Serve varied foods in the regular diet, and learn to use the right amount of sugar to make the various dishes tasteful and delicious.

It is simply impossible to keep well without eating the varied foods that contain all the health elements. It is almost impossible to eat these foods unless they are pleasing to the taste. Sugar, in addition to being a wonderful food, is nature's perfect flavor.

Make delicious milk-shakes with milk, sugar and flavoring. If you want your family to like eggs, learn how quick and easy it is to make healthful egg-nogs. Remember applesauce, stewed dried fruits and cereals for breakfast. Remember the rule of one cooked and one raw fruit and vegetable a day properly sweetened, and cakes, cookies, and ice cream for dessert. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. ### Many Masons Will Attend Stag Party

RESERVATIONS already made for the monthly Masonic stag party Friday at Masonic temple indicate that the party will be one of the largest ever given. Seventy persons have signified their intention of attending up to the present time and preparations are being made for more than 200.

The John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay, will have entire charge of the stag. Members will serve a chicken dinner at 6:30 and will entertain with program consisting of a chalk talk, a burlesque on Hamlet, the exemplification of the DeMolay degree and cards.

Those who work on the dining room committee will be Kenneth Downer, chairman, Robert Kunitz, Roy Marston, Jr., Chester Thiede and Wilford Tock. Members of the serving committee will be Chester Davis, chairman, Harold Woehler, Alvin Woehler, Kenneth Downer, Kenneth Kioehn, Roger Abraham, Chester Thiede, Volney and Vincent Burgess, Walter Moore, Erwin Rookes, Wilford Tock, Wilmer Schlafel and Carl Wettengel.

The entertainment will be put on by Carl Wettengel, Monica Cooney, Jean Shannon, Virginia Hoesgood, Kenneth Downer, Chester Thiede, Walter Moore, Roy Marston, Jr., Roger Abraham and Jack Schlegel. Officers who will occupy chairs in the exemplification of the degree work will be Frank Harriman, James Hoesgood, Roger Abraham, Chester Davis, Robert Shepherd, Robert Kunitz, Herman Schwager, Walter Moore, Volney and Vincent Burgess, Edward Hertfeldt, Wilmer Schlafel, Jr., Chester Thiede, Carl Wettengel, Kenneth Kioehn, Howard Stark, Harold Woehler and Roy Marston, Jr.

LODGE NEWS

The Loyal Order of Moose contributed $10 to the fund for financing the boy scout movement at the meeting of the lodge Tuesday night. Candidates were balloted upon and reports of captains of the teams in the membership drive were submitted. A class of candidates will be initiated at the meeting Tuesday night, Feb. 26. A Jiggs lunch, corned beef and cabbage, will be served. A team of dart baseball players from the Trinity English Lutheran church played a team of the Moose after the meeting. The Moose won three out of the five games played.

The second degree was conferred at the meeting of the Konicolic Lodge, Order of Odd Fellows, Monday night at Odd Fellow hall. The third degree will be exemplified next Monday night. A letter from the Rev. William P. Pearce, a former resident of the city and members of the lodge, was read. The next card and dance party will be given March 8.

There will be a meeting of Knights of Columbus at 8 o'clock Thursday night at Catholic home. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by Henry Otto.

There was no meeting of Fraternal Reserve association Tuesday night at Odd Fellow hall as had been previously scheduled. The next meeting will be the first Thursday in March.

SCHOOL GIRLS PRESENT 3 SCENES FROM PLAY

Girls from the 9B section at Wilson junior high school presented three scenes from the Merchant of Venice before the 9B and 9D sections on Monday. The scenes portrayed were the court scene where Shylock is trying to claim the pound of flesh promised him by Bassanio; the ring scene where Portia returns the ring to Bassanio; and the bond plot where Bassanio borrows money from Shylock.

The role of Antonio was taken by Miss Lily Holz; Shylock by Miss Helen Bergman; Portia by Miss Mildred Lewis; Nerissa by Miss Margaret Hoesgood; and Bassanio by Miss Eleanor Kamla.

DEAN WOODWORTH AT NATIONAL MEETING

Miss Marguerite Woodworth, dean of women at Lawrence college, has gone to Cleveland, O., where she will attend the thirteenth annual meeting of the national association of deans of women. The convention will hold sessions from Wednesday to Saturday and Miss Woodworth will return to Appleton on Sunday.

CARD PARTIES

The first of the series of five open card parties given by Royal Neighbors will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall. A business meeting of the lodge at 7:30 will precede the meeting. Prizes will be given at bridge, schafkopf and dice at each party and grand prizes will be awarded at the end of the series. Members of the committee in charge will be Mrs. Adeline Zuehlke, chairman, Mrs. Minnie Hoesgood, Mrs. Pauline Gerou, Mrs. Ida Grabfelder, Mrs. Mary Poole, Mrs. Anna Boelsen, Mrs. Ruth Peebles, Miss Anna Yontz, Mrs. Emma Schwere, Mrs. Lucinda Chandler, Miss Marcella Myse and Mrs. Elsie Felton.

All Masonic women have been invited to attend a bridge party at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at Masonic temple. Members of the committee in charge will be Mrs. Vern Ames, Mrs. Ernest Morse and Mrs. James B. Wagg.

The Knights of Pythias have completed arrangements for a tournament of six open card parties, the first of which will be given at 8 o'clock Friday night, Washington's birthday. Ample arrangements have been made to take care of 50 tables each of bridge and schafkopf, and 15 tables of skat. Prizes will be given in each group for men and women at every party and grand prizes will be given at the close of the tournament. Schafkopf will be played in the dining room, skat in the club's card rooms and bridge in the main hall and parlors. Earl Boulden and Seymour Gomer are in charge of the arrangements for bridge. Karl Greunke and Gilbert Trentlage for schafkopf and William Eschner and Robert O. Schmidt for skat. J. A. Kox is the general chairman.

RESERVE GIRLS HEAR ADDRESS ON CLUB WORK

Girls Reserves of Appleton High School were entertained by Miss Edith Mitten, hostess, at a luncheon Tuesday at 12:30 at her home, 815 E. Franklin St. Tuesday evening. Regular discussion was adjourned as Miss Edith Mitten, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Neenah, was present and talked on Girl Reserves clubs of the world. Miss Mitten told the story of the organization of the Y. W. C. A. and of the Girl Reserves. She also spoke of the clubs, activities, and camps carried on by Girl Reserves in Latvia, Estonia, Constantinople, Greece, South America, Japan, the Philippines, and in Roumania where Princess Ilena is the national president of the organization.

Miss Mitten recently came to Neenah from Waukegan where the Y. W. C. A. has enrolled several hundred Girl Reserves. The Appleton Club is registered with the National Y. W. C. A. as there is no city chapter. Miss Wilson is the corresponding member for Wisconsin for Girl Reserve Clubs of cities where there are no Y. W. C. A. units.

Miss Helen Webster, president of the Neenah Club, extended an invitation to local Girl Reserves to attend a Friendship Meeting, April 24, at Neenah. A social hour during which refreshments were served, followed the discussion. The Misses Audrey Raische, Edith Foth, Blanche Christianson of Neenah, and Ellen Stuart of Lawrence College, former Girl Reserve of Waupun, were also present.

AUDIENCE WELL PLEASED WITH ELFIN RECITAL

A musically and well-sung recital was given by Miss Dora Elfin, student of Dean Carl J. Waterman, before a large and enthusiastic audience at Peabody hall Tuesday evening. Her singing was characterized by good control, clear diction and wide range.

The outstanding number of Miss Elfin's program was "Farewell, Hills," aria from "Don Quixote" by Tschalkowsky. The fine legato demanded by the two Italian numbers by Gluck was easily provided by the singer and equally well-judged were the two Schumann numbers in the first group. In the closing group "Alone on the House-tops" by Foele, "The Last Hour" by Kramer, and "The Danza" by Chudwick were the most enthusiastically received by the audience.

Miss Elfin's accompaniments were played by Everett Roudeshush from the studio of Prof. John Ross Frankton.

FRANK NAMED CITY SEALER BY COUNCIL

New Official Will Assume Duties March 1 at Monthly Salary of $35

Kaukauna—Harold Frank was named city sealer of weights and measures by the common council Tuesday evening. Mr. Frank, who succeeds Gerard Brenzel, who moved from the city a couple of months ago, will take up his duties March 1. The salary is $35 a month and expenses.

A petition for laying water mains and sewers on Oak, Island, Elm and Maple streets on the island was presented to the council. The petition was signed by 13 residents on the streets mentioned. It was referred to the board of public works. A report will be made by the board at the next meeting of the council.

A class A permit was granted to A. Linstrom to operate a soft drink parlor at 101 Wisconsin-ave.

Little discussion took place on the bus matter. It was decided to wait until the hearing scheduled by the Wisconsin Railroad commission in Menasha on Feb. 28. It was brought out that the city would welcome a favorable settlement of the matter between the valley cities and the bus company.

Alderman George L. Smith moved that the council oppose removal of the railroad shops from the city. Mayor W. C. Sullivan amended the motion that a vote of thanks be extended to Governor W. Kohler for his cooperation with the local committees working for the maintenance of the shops. The motion was seconded and adopted by the council.

It was suggested by Alderman Smith that the city advertise itself. He stated that the city has the two main factors favorable for manufacturing plants, transportation and cheap power. He pointed out that there are many cities in the United States that never heard of the good opportunities this city has to offer. Kaukauna has good railroads and cheap electricity which should be advertised, he said. Other aldermen favored the suggestion but no action was taken.

AGRICULTURE TEACHER WILL SPEAK AT FAIR

Kaukauna—J. H. Kolb of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture has been engaged as a speaker for the Mid-winter fair to be held next week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. He will talk Friday on Farm and Town Relationship. Discussions will take place after his talk.

The silent drill team of Company D of Appleton will appear on the entertainment program. The drill will be under the direction of Sergt. J. Dwyer.

HIGH SCHOOL TALKERS ENTER SEMI-FINALS

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school debaters will enter the state semi-finals, it was announced Tuesday by J. F. Cavanaugh, superintendent of schools. They will be held next week at Shawano or New London. The local debaters will meet the two schools and if they win will go to the state finals.

The affirmative team won both debates this year and the negative team won one and lost one. Members of the teams are Francis and Robert Grogan, Robert Beyer, Peter Hansen, Julie Huebner, Herman May, Misses Alice May Whittey, Dorothy Goldin, and Alice Baigie.

SCHOOLS PLANNING WASHINGTON PROGRAMS

Kaukauna—Washington's birthday will be celebrated with a Washington program in Kaukauna high school Friday morning. Luke VanLieshout will give a talk on George Washington, the Father of His Country, and Marion Hagman will give a talk on Abraham Lincoln, the Savior of His Country.

A program also is being planned by the students of the Junior high school. It was announced by Principal J. J. Haas.

LEGION POST MEETS AT HALL ON TUESDAY

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna American Legion held a regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening in Legion hall on Oak-st. Routine business took place.

MAN IS FINED $2 FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Kaukauna—John Rainwick paid a fine of $2 to Justice of Peace N. Schwin Tuesday. He was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Lady Knights of Columbus will meet at 230 Thursday afternoon in the K. of C. hall on Wisconsin-ave. An educational program will be presented after the business meeting. The Rev. P. McElchior will give a talk.

A meeting of the Kaukauna Women's club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. T. Runte on Doty-st. A patriotic program was presented. Roll call was answered with quotations from Lincoln. Mrs. J. Cleland led the singing. Mrs. John Regenfuss read a paper entitled "In What Does American Excel Other Nations?" Another paper entitled "In What Do Other Nations Excel Us?" was read by Mrs. J. J. Haas. Mrs. L. C. Wolf gave a history of the flag and flag etiquette. Hostesses were Mesdames M. A. Raught, John Regenfuss, B. G. Prugh, W. M. Richardson and J. Blank.

The twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Odile Chapter of the Eastern Star will be celebrated at a meeting and dinner of that organization Friday evening in Masonic hall. Eleven charter members will be present. A covered dish dinner will be given at 6:30 and will be followed by a business meeting. Initiation will take place.

The choir of the Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the home of Martin Hoffman on Sixth-st.

LAMBIE, COOPER SET PACE IN BOWLING LOOP

150,718 POUNDS OF CHEESE MADE LAST YEAR AT FACTORY

School Grove Cooperative Group Holds Annual Business Gathering

Special to Post-Crescent
Foreman Junction—Some twenty members of the School Grove Cooperative Cheese Producers' association, gathered for the transaction of their annual business at the factory here Tuesday afternoon, heard the report of John Seybold, president of the organization, who headed the delegation from the factory to the fifteenth annual meeting of the National Cheese Producers' federation at Plymouth last week.

Reviewing the official addresses of President Brickbauer and General Manager Cornelia of the national organization and the messages of the other speakers at the Plymouth gathering, Mr. Seybold impressed upon his constituency the necessity for sincere cooperation.

The 1928 report of the factory was presented by the secretary-treasurer, R. J. Hacker and showed 1,546,154 pounds of milk delivered, with an output of 150,718 pounds cheese, or an average yield of 9.7 pounds. The total butter fat was 56,479.2 and the average test 3.65. The average price paid per 100 pounds of milk and cream was $2.11. Directors Seybold, Hacker, Zick, Engel and Helm were reelected, and H. J. Olm, who has been operating the factory for nearly nine years, was reelected. Measures were discussed for petitioning congressional representatives to favor an increased tariff on cheese and dairy products.

The Apple Grove Cheese factory, owned and operated by Walter Siebert, also held its annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon. The factory, which disposes of its output on the open market, is non-cooperative and has no official organization excepting the temporary arrangement effected for the purpose of transacting the annual business. Its output for 1928 was 155,581.5 pounds of cheese from 1,694,579 pounds of milk, an average yield of 9.18. The total pounds of butterfat were 59,539.7, and the average test 3.5.

Another cooperative branch here of the National federation, the Hickory Grove factory, operated by Vernon Kungiger, will hold its annual meeting Thursday.

"ENOCH ARDEN" KNEW WIFE REWED, HE SAYS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Milwaukee's Enoch Arden did not follow exactly the precedent set in Tennyson's poem, it was learned Tuesday. For although Charles Wagner had been given up as dead ever since he left his wife in April of 1919, and later was legally declared so, he knew all the while that he had been divorced and that his wife had remarried.

This was revealed by the man Tuesday in the presence of his second wife, a childhood sweetheart from Waukegan, Wis., and their five-year old daughter, Mildred Louise. Wagner remarried six years ago. He had two children by this second marriage, one of whom died.

"My conscience hurts me terribly," Wagner said. "I am at fault for leaving my two infant children 10 years ago and the thought of them has plagued me wherever I went, but now that I have learned that they are happy I'm going to try to start life anew. Two months ago in Merrill I thought that tuberculosis had me, but I'm going to fight the disease now and I think I can win out."

"I knew that I had been given up for dead by my first wife and I realize that she must have suffered much mental anguish, but I was ashamed to meet her, so, although I knew about her marriage, she knew nothing about what had happened to me."

KAUKAUNA FIVE LOSES TO REFORMATORY TEAM

Kaukauna—Milford's Twenty-five club lost a non-league basketball game to the State reformatory at Green Bay Tuesday evening, 21 to 19. The fracas was fast and interesting but the smooth working teamwork of the prison boys gave them a substantial lead.

What Shall I Do for Gray Hair?

By ALICE STRAWN

I am often asked for a good way to restore gray, faded or streaked hair. While there are many preparations on the market for the purpose, I know of nothing better than a mixture of good old sage tea and sulphur. You can either prepare the mixture at home yourself, or as most women prefer, buy it already prepared and ready to use.

The correct recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, may be had in Wreth's Sage & Sulphur Compound. All druggists carry it and since the cost is only 75c a bottle, there is really no need for any woman to go to the bother of preparing it herself. You would be surprised if you knew the number of men and women who employ Wreth's Sage & Sulphur because its use is undetectable.

You simply moisten a comb or a soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one small strand at a time. By morning the gray disappears and another application or two sees your hair beautifully and evenly restored to its original color. There is no suggestion of that hard, dead look that repels fastidious women. I advise any woman—no matter how old—is turning gray to try Wreth's Sage & Sulphur.

TOWN OF CHILTON MAN DIES AT FARM HOME

Chilton—Herbert E. Riedel, 37, of the town of Chilton, died at his home on Tuesday morning after a lingering illness. Mr. Riedel was born in the town of Pantou, but moved to the farm in the town of Chilton, with his parents when a boy of twelve. He was unmarried. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Riedel, and by two sisters, Mrs. Oscar Behnke of the town of Chilton and Mrs. Fred DeKarske of Chilton, Wis. The funeral will be held from the home at 1:30 on Saturday afternoon, and from the Brand Lutheran church at 2 o'clock, the service to be conducted by Rev. Richard Heschke of Hilbert. Burial will be in the Brand cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen and son and County Judge and Mrs. H. P. Arps were in New Holstein Monday afternoon to attend the funeral of the mother of Mr. Hansen, and the grandmother of Mr. Arps, Mrs. Jacob Hansen, 79, who died at her home on Friday evening after a lingering illness. The deceased was one of the earliest settlers of this country. Born in Germany, she came to this country at an early age. She has lived in Calumet for more than 60. Her husband died five years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Fred Arps of New Holstein, Mrs. Henry Kaiser of Kiel, and three sons, John of Chilton, Fred of Eaton, Manitowoc, and Otto of Fond du Lac. She also leaves seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren. The funeral was held from the home at 1:30 on Monday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. A. Plappert of Sheboygan, formerly of New Holstein. Burial was made in the New Holstein cemetery.

Walter Kroehne left for Milwaukee Tuesday morning to attend a lumber dealers' convention.

Frederick Aebischer was a Manitowoc visitor on Monday.

Louis Sassman of Madison, director of vocational agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, was a Chilton visitor on Tuesday.

The Tuesday club was entertained at the home of Mrs. George Berger on Tuesday afternoon.

The GREATER HUDSON acclaimed by the smartest buyers the outstanding value above $1,000

The secret ballot that forecast what all motordom is now saying . . . The Greater Hudson was first shown to groups of motor dealers who were asked to examine it from the standpoint of general attractiveness in lines, appearance, comfort, fittings, performance and value, and then to cast a secret ballot on which they checked their individual appraisal of every detail.

The vote by these many dealers gave a true indication of public acceptance with the result that twice as many dealers have contracted for Hudson this year as had signed at this time one year ago.

Now by tens and tens of thousands automobile buyers are likewise casting their secret and unanimous vote for the Greater Hudson. You will see the score in 5,000 salesrooms. It is conclusive proof that the Greater Hudson is the public favorite of all cars selling above $1,000.

Won't you, too, go to the nearest Hudson dealer and make your appraisal as so many thousands have already done.

STREET EXTENSION PROJECT REFERRED TO COUNCIL BOARD

Aldermen Sustain Mayor's Veto and Reinstate Proposal

After sustaining Mayor A. C. Rule's veto of a committee's report recommending extension of W. Second-st from S. Bounds-st to Whitman-ave, the common council Tuesday evening referred the proposal to the board of public works with instructions to return a written report.

Shortly after the adjourned meeting was called to order, Carl Becher, city clerk, read the mayor's veto and Alderman Charles Thompson immediately moved adoption of the report over the mayor's veto.

Alderman John Diederich, the other second ward representative, then took the floor and urged that the veto be sustained. A debate of almost three-quarters of an hour followed before the vote was taken. The vote was 6 to 5 for Alderman Thompson's motion. Alderman Mark Catlin was absent. Those voting against the Thompson motion and therefore supporting the veto, were Aldermen George Brautigan, R. F. McGillan, John Diederich, Mike Steinhauer and W. H. VanderHoyden.

The mayor filed his veto for three reasons, it was explained. He believed the expense necessitated by the street extension would be greater than the improvement warranted; he feared it might lay the foundation for orders for another subway; and he pointed out that the demand was not made by a group of citizens, but by only one property owner.

URGES VETO SUPPORT
In urging that the mayor's veto be sustained, Alderman Diederich asked that the council determine first what can be done before the city puts itself in a position where more heavy expenditures will be required.

"It seems to me that this recommendation will do at least one of two things," he said. "Either it will force the sale of the property, probably at a price far in excess of what it is really worth, or it will subject the city to a cost way beyond the merit of project. I believe the wisest action the council could take would be to sustain the mayor's veto and proceed with this matter from another angle."

The mayor then outlined in more detail reasons why he had vetoed the recommendation.

"In the first place, I doubt very much whether this property could be condemned so that the street could be extended," he said. "And even if we could win condemnation proceedings, the street never would be opened. The street extension would have to cross a number of railroad tracks and the Northwestern railroad would buy the property from Mr. Spoerl first before allowing the project to go through."

"This is evidently the object back of the entire movement and I for one do not care to be a party back of an action increasing or lowering the value of any property privately owned. I am not in the real estate business and I will hang out 'a shingle' first before going into such a business."

SEEK FINAL SETTLEMENT

Alderman George Richard then asked permission for Attorney F. C. Rooney, who represented Mr. Spoerl, owner of the property affected by the proposed street extension, to address the council. Before Mr. Rooney took the floor, the history of the land transactions around Mr. Spoerl's property and including his, was outlined by A. C. Bossier, city attorney.

Alderman Thompson then arose to explain why he believed the mayor's veto should be overridden.

"Although this same matter has been brought up several times within the last few years, it has always been referred to some committee and dropped there," he said. "Consequently there is nothing on record and we have no comeback whenever the move to extend this street is introduced again. The only purpose of the recommendation is to get the matter settled definitely one way or the other and incidentally to get something on record. I think the mayor's veto was entirely improper, as the mayor was merely vetoing a recommendation for the work."

Alderman Diederich countered by pointing out that such action would burden a corporation as well as the community.

Attorney Rooney pointed out that so far as he could determine from records on file at the office of the register of deeds, the city still had title to the property. The property was granted to the city years ago and refused, but it was not ceded back to the original owners, he explained. He said Mr. Spoerl has no legal passage to and from this property, but is at the mercy of the railroad.

SUPERIOR MAYOR IN NEW ELECTION RACE

Superior—(AP)—Superior's election quandy developed a new angle Tuesday as Mayor A. Baxter began the circulation of nomination papers for mayor under the new form of city government.

Baxter, however, refused to admit defeat in his long court battle to prevent adoption of the new form, which provides for a mayor and 10 councilmen, to replace the old regime of a mayor and two commissioners.

Baxter's entrance into the lists now gives George Dietrick, the only other man who has filed nomination papers, an opponent in the mayoralty race.

WORK SITUATION HERE NOT MUCH IMPROVED

The employment situation in the city isn't much improved, according to John Goodrick, employment secretary at the Y. M. C. A. Eight to ten inquiries for work are being received daily at the employment desk, but local industrial plants have not reported any vacancies. During the past few weeks the city street department has somewhat remedied the situation by offering snow removal jobs.

FIRE CHIEF ASKS COUNCIL FOR MORE ROOM AT STATION

Suggests That Police Department Be Removed to New Quarters

Removal of the police department to new quarters to permit the fire department to occupy the entire building it is now located in, is recommended by George P. McGillan, fire chief, in his annual report to the common council. Crowded conditions in the fire department called forth the recommendation, according to the chief.

"The fire department is very cramped for room and I would recommend that the city procure other quarters for the police department and give the fire department the entire building which was originally purchased for that purpose," he said. "This proposal is of paramount importance to our department, and I trust you will give this recommendation serious consideration."

Recommendation for the addition of eight more men to the department, and purchase of 2,000 feet of fire hose, also was made by the chief.

There were 220 fire calls last year, the report showed. Twenty-one were lost alarms and 199 were telephone calls. Four calls were answered from out of the city.

The total value of property involved in fires was $3,716,030.49, of which $403,208.49 was the value of contents of buildings and the remainder the value of buildings.

MOST PROPERTY INSURED
That fire insurance is popular in Appleton is indicated by the fact that of the total valuation of $3,716,030.49, insurance for these buildings and contents totaled $3,323,996.76. Insurance on the buildings totaled $3,065,321.76 and contents, $258,675. The loss on buildings was $71,839.68, the loss on contents was $150,470.74, making the total loss $222,310.42.

Chimney fires were the chief causes of the conflagrations, 46 fires having been laid to this cause. Short circuits in automobiles caused 21, sparks from chimneys 16, and spontaneous combustion 14. Thirteen fires were from unknown causes, 12 from cigarettes, and six from rubbish. There were 15 false alarms during the year.

The cost of the department to the city last year was $68,458.36. Expenditures were as follows: payroll, $46,644.50; general supplies, $33,494; repairs to buildings, $335.58; repairs to apparatus, $1,653.36; water rent, $92.13; telephone, $125.08; laundry, $18.44; new apparatus, $12,755.30; fuel account, $568.09; gas and oil, $238.50; new hose, tires, etc., $1,819.50; minor equipment, $232.14; light, $238.06; miscellaneous, $351.62; total, $669,272.74. The signal system added an additional $2,530.00, increasing the total to $68,802.80. Credits amounted to $344.44, leaving a balance of $68,458.36.

DEMAND CREDENTIALS OF SHRUB SALESMEN

Madison—(AP)—A warning to purchasers of nursery stock to demand credentials of all agents selling such stock has been issued by the state department of agriculture.

Every year, unscrupulous nursery agents are discovered selling stock either not true to name or not sufficiently hardy to withstand Wisconsin climate, the department said. It intends to enforce, strictly, the state law which prohibits buyers and makes it illegal to misrepresent the character, quality or variety of young trees and shrubs. Agents' credentials are issued by the department.

The Inaugural Pageant

FROM WASHINGTON TO HOOVER

ULYSES S. GRANT, 1860-77
BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington—(AP)—Ulysses S. Grant laid aside his "Inevitable cigar" long enough to ride to the capitol in an inaugural procession that was the greatest military display Washington had ever witnessed.

The inauguration of the unassuming leader of the Union armies, the most distinguished citizen of the country during the post-war period, attracted a record breaking crowd to the capitol.

Cots were packed into every available space in hotels and houses, and hundreds of visitors, unable to find sleeping quarters, walked the streets all night.

Describing the congestion, the Washington Evening Star of March 4, 1869, said:

"One original Grant man from the back settlements, with a carpet bag in each hand and a female on each arm, was seen about 2 o'clock this morning near the Circle, having vainly tried at every home between the depot and that point for a sleeping place."

Windows, balconies and porticoes fronting upon Pennsylvania avenue were in great demand by parade spectators and negotiations for vacant age points were in progress early in February. From $25 to $50 was paid for single windows overlooking the line of procession, and "one gentleman having a fine balcony in front of his residence declined $150 for its use, preferring to have it for the use of his family and friends."

Many famous Civil war regiments, a small body of Mexican war veterans, and 30 soldiers of the War of 1812 were in the procession. The old warriors of 1812 rode in a lavishly decorated omnibus drawn by six white horses.

Grant, however, disappointed the spectacle-lovers who had counted upon seeing him in his full uniform as commanding general of the United States armies. He had no taste for display of this sort and avoided it just as he declined the pomp of a triumphal entry into Richmond after his capture. So the former "fanner's boy," wearing a severely plain black suit, rode in an open carriage through lanes of wildly cheering people.

There was a "terrible jam" at the inaugural ball, which was held in the new wing of the treasury building. Many fainted from the heat and pressure of the crowd and "swooning ladies were handed about in a matter of course way." A Washington reporter said:

"The venerable white head and spectacles of Horace Greeley made him a conspicuous object wherever he moved, causing him to be recognized by everybody. In the midst of the gay throng, he looked like a cat in a strange garret, and was continually getting stranded in the most hopeless position."

"He swore a good deal in the oddest and most miscellaneous style when jammed and jostled for two hours in the cloak rooms inquest of his white overcoat. One would as soon expect a bullet from a rosebud as an oath from Horace Greeley, but he certainly did curse most ferociously on this occasion."

Washington shoe polishers, augmented by a small army of boot-blacks from Philadelphia, gave inaugural visitors "a Grant shine for a dime." In the evening, guests at the Metropolitan hotel amused themselves by throwing nickels into the streets for the scrambling boot-blacks.

The chief feature of the observance of New Year's day, 1873, in Washington was the "almost total absence of wines and liquors. The example in this respect was set at the White House. It has been the custom heretofore to furnish the policemen and attendants with refreshments which have included something to drink as well as something to eat. Today the President directed that refreshments be furnished as usual, with coffee substituted for liquors."

FLOOR WAX CATCHES FIRE AT SCHOOLHOUSE
While waxing the office floor at Wilson Junior high school Saturday morning the wax became ignited and started a fire which damaged the office rug and smoked up the walls. The fire was easily extinguished with chemicals, however, so the fire department was not called.

Andrew Montgomery, who graduated from Appleton high school in 1926, is stationed at Peking, China, with the United States marines, according to word received here.

ATCHISON HOLDS FRONT RANK AMONG ROAD INVESTMENTS

Company Has Paid Dividends for 27 Years—Present Rate 10 Per Cent

Atchison belongs in the front rank of railway investment stocks. For twenty-seven years it has paid dividends without interruption. The lowest rate was 3 1/2 per cent and that obtained in only one year, 1901. The highest has been 10 per cent which is the present rate.

The capital structure of Atchison is well balanced consisting of 44 per cent funded debt and 56 per cent stock of which 37 per cent is common and 19 per cent is preferred. There is not only a wide margin of safety for the dividend but a large equity for the stock. As of December 31, 1927, the 1928 balance sheet is not available at this writing; the book value per share of common was $52.29. In each of the past two years net available for the common has been over $18 a share.

With this background it is not surprising that during the height of the bull campaign in the stock market Atchison made a new top for all time. Like the other railroad stocks that have been discussed in this series Atchison has attraction not only for the dividends but for the rights which accrue to shareholders from time to time. Early in 1928 additional common stock to the amount of 92,964 shares was offered to stockholders at par and the rights to subscribe sold in the open market between $3 and $4 a share which was in effect an extra dividend.

More recently the stockholders have received rights to subscribe to convertible bonds which if they did not choose to exercise themselves they could sell for cash. These rights have had a market value of roughly from $1.50 to $2.50 a share. It is reasonable to expect opportunities in the future illustrating one of the principal advantages of investment in common stocks.

Then there is the steadily increasing equity of the common in the property. Whether disbursed or not these earnings belong to the shareholders. As long as income contin-

IDENTIFY WOMAN WHO LEAPED TO HER DEATH

Milwaukee—(AP)—Unidentified at the morgue for eight hours, the woman who leaped to her death in the city hall Tuesday afternoon was claimed by Gustave Schurmeier as that of his wife, Mrs. Frances Schurmeier, 36.

Schurmeier told police that he could not induce his wife to leave liquor alone and that he had gone to the district attorney with the problem. In a letter to her, he said, authorities threatened to take from her custody Joseph, 15, a son by a previous marriage.

Authorities believe the woman jumped from the fifth floor corridor to the main floor, as a number of persons were standing about the corridors on all floors except the fifth. One employee said she saw the woman drop to the floor and said that she fell from some point above the fourth floor.

Appleton, East Green Bay in Grudge Battle Thursday

ORANGE WORKING HARD TO TURN BACK THEIR NEMESIS

Invaders Have Annoying Habit of Bumping Off Local Title Teams

THE biggest basketball game on the 1929 schedule for Appleton high school will be played Thursday evening in Armory G. when the Orange meets East Green Bay's Red Devils in a return encounter. The highs suffered their first defeat last Friday in the hands of the Baymen.

Indications are that the battle will be one that the folks will take about for weeks to come. The invaders have had a terrible habit of popping off the Orange during the last season but always have had the advantage of playing on their home floor or field. But everything comes to the who waits and if high school cagers have anything to say about it the Bays are to get a terrible trouncing.

Thursday's game still has a direct bearing on the title chase for the Orange isn't out of the running yet. Friday evening there will be a battle royal down at Oshkosh when the Sawdust city youngsters meet Manitowish and as both teams have lost but one game, one will be eliminated from the flag race.

Last week the Orange went up to Green Bay and did almost everything wrong. They passed as though they had never known how, and every time they attempted a long shot the ball fell short. It was a sorry exhibition from an aggregate of the best players who looked like a million dollars and the boys are out to redeem themselves.

The Orange will present the same lineup that was defeated last week. Captain Benny Rafotti attended practice Tuesday for the first time in several days and although he may get into a suit before Thursday night he will not receive first call for the pivot position. The youngster still is weak and wouldn't stand the gaff for an entire evening so that Coach Shields plans to use him as a lone trump near the end of the game.

In the meantime Breitrick will again play center, and with the extra work he has been getting during the week may come through like a veteran. Berg and Goehner will be at forward, the former destined to bear the brunt of the scoring, the latter to mix up ball tossing with gunning.

The burden of the defense will fall on Jake Schaefer and Bobby Witz, two youngsters who showed last week they can hold their own in any company. Once in a while they suffered lapses of memory and let the Bays dribble in for pot shots but most of the Redmen's score were the result of long tosses that couldn't be stopped.

Wm. Shields has been brewing up all his best tricks to pull on the invaders, and long, hard workouts have been a daily thing for the Orange. From workouts they are well prepared to battle the Bays and have only the coming game on their minds, the championship problem being in the background for the present.

HALVERSON, RIPPON TOPS LOOP SCORERS

Bizer and Kempthorne of Carroll Follow Redmen's Star

Rippon—(P)—Rippon college's sharp shooter, Chief Halverson, holds the title four basketball conference scoring lead by a single point, as the result of the Carroll-Rippon farces Monday night.

The heretofore unchallenged supremacy of the veteran Rippon ace was threatened when Herb Bizer and Capt. Kempthorne, both of Carroll and Red Martin of Rippon, boasted their totals considerably.

The team scoring honors again fall to Rippon with 122, a single point margin over Carroll.

BADGER COACH FEARS NORTHWESTERN FIVE

Chicago—(P)—Despite Wisconsin's overwhelming defeat of Northwestern at Madison Monday night, Coach Walter Meanwell is looking forward with fear and trembling to the return game at Evanston Saturday.

Meanwell predicted after the game that his team would drop at least one more game this season and said he wouldn't be surprised if Northwestern turned the trick this week. Michigan is through its losing streak in the opinion of the Wisconsin coach.

May Coach at M. T. "Butch" Nowack, star Illinois tackle the past two years, may be given a job as assistant coach at Marquette next fall.

Only Three Sports Track university will abolish day as a major sport soon, leaving only football, basketball and basketball as major sports.

Here's Young Stribling's first knockout victory! This photograph was taken at Fresno, Calif., in 1912, when Young Stribling was only 7 years old. His brother Herbert, was the victim of Stribling's punch on that date, and Pa Stribling tolled off ten over the defeated warrior.

Baseball Coaches Soon Will Have Their Troubles

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Leased Wire

New York—As the baseball clubs swing into action, in the southland, several hard working chaps may be heard making comments about the burden they have to bear during the spring training grind. They, poor fellows, are the coaches. The paid coach has become an inseparable part of major league and class AA baseball. When the coach plays the first began there were clubs objecting strongly. All of them have now taken it up and some in a very liberal manner.

The coach has become a sort of assistant manager. His position on a ball team gives him a place on the field. The manager who does not don a uniform can get no nearer to the diamond than the bench on which he sits.

The Boston Braves have Sergeant Hank Gowdy for coach. He has acted in that capacity before. Johnny Evers is a little higher than coach because he has been officially christened assistant manager. That does not debar him from the coach's box if he puts on a uniform.

Brooklyn likes Otto Miller, an old catcher, as coach. Max Carey plays occasionally for Brooklyn and when he is not playing he is coaching. The Cubs have lost Mike Dolan who was very good at shaping up infielders. Grover Land has been named in his place and the coaches this year are Land and Jimmy Burke, a former manager, and third baseman. Land was with Cincinnati last year.

Coaches for Cincinnati will be Ivy Wingo the Reds' fine old time catcher.

OHIO STATE STAR AND COACH TO MARQUETTE

Milwaukee—(P)—John T. (Tarzan) Taylor, former football star and line coach at Ohio last fall, has accepted an offer to be assistant football coach, in charge of the line candidates at Marquette university for the next two years.

Taylor told friends in Columbus Tuesday he had decided to accept the Marquette offer. At the Hilltop offices here it was said no formal acceptance had been received but that the offer to Taylor was along lines which the Ohio had indicated would be satisfactory to him.

WILSON GRADE QUINT DEFEATS ROOSEVELT

The Wilson junior high school seventh grade basketball team defeated the Roosevelt seventh grade team in a game at Wilson school Monday evening. Inasmuch as the first game of the season was won by the Roosevelt boys, this game places the score at a tie, and it is hoped that a third game can be played to determine the final victor.

To William Kenney, the big money pal of Al Smith's. . . . And the rumor had it that Al would be installed as a partner and president of the club. . . . ## SPORTS QUESTION BOX

If you have some question to ask about Baseball, Football, Boxing or any other amateur or professional sports, write to John B. Foster, on Baseball, Lawrence Perry, on Amateur Sports, and Fair Play, on Boxing and other professional sports. 314 World Building, New York. If you want a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Otherwise your question will be answered in this column. Copyright 1929 by the Post Pub. Co.

Question—If a runner finds that he has gotten to third base and has touched the base, and then finds that the runner who was on third base is coming back from home plate to try to regain third, can he go back to second base without being called out for running the bases in reverse order.

Answer—Yes. A player has a right to try to overcome his blunder.

Question—Who is the biggest heavyweight now fighting? How tall is he, etc?

Answer—An Italian by the name of Primo Carnera. He is six feet eleven inches tall, weighs 268 pounds, wears an 18 shoe and a size 24-collar.

QUESTION—Is Knute Rockne in any business aside from athletics?

Answer—Indeed he is; he is a motor car salesman.

WOMEN BOWLERS GO TO RACINE IN 1929

Sylvia Roubeshush, Appleton, Re-elected State Vice President

Oshkosh—(P)—The 1930 Women's state bowling tournament will be held in Racine, it was decided at the annual meeting of the state association held in the Hotel Raulf here Tuesday night. Racine's invitation was extended through the Women's Organization, the Association of Commerce and the Racine hotel.

Mrs. Edward Barth, of Racine, was named the new president of the state association, and, following the custom of electing the treasurer from the tournament city, Mrs. Marie Lane was named to that office.

Miss Sylvia Roubeshush, of Appleton, was re-elected vice president; Miss Ellen Dunn, of Appleton, sergeant at arms; and Mrs. Mollie Puopke, of this city, the retiring president and Mrs. T. Sauer, of Milwaukee, were named directors for a three-year term.

A resolution petitioning affiliation with the Women's International Bowling Congress was adopted. Scores chalked up in individual events of the state tourney here Tuesday failed to displace any of the leaders. The Anchor Jewellers, of this city, rolling with a booster squad late Tuesday afternoon went into second place among the booster teams, with a total of 1,922.

BADGER HOCKEY SIX BEATS WOLVERINES

Madison—(P)—Scoring a tally in each of the three playing periods, the University of Wisconsin puck team broke up a brilliant career with Michigan here Tuesday night by winning 3 to 0.

The Wisconsin six showed an improved front throughout the clash and fought the Wolves off their feet through most of the clash.

The Badgers tallied early in the first period when Sigurd took a pass that broke up for a short shot less than a minute after the 13 started. The remainder of the period was Wisconsin and the Badgers scored once more, only to lose the marker on a down by the offense.

LOU MAGNOLIA IS NAMED REFEREE FOR MIAMI FIGHT

Principals Fight Over What Boxing Rules Will Govern Bout

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (AP)—Now that a referee has been named by Lou Magnolia, tall New York boxer, to referee the fight between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, youthful gladiators in the flinty Civil war of the north and south, it would seem that the way is paved for a comparatively peaceful conclusion of the fight Jack Dempsey built.

It would seem so, but the undercurrents and loop holes in arrangements that brought about the naming of Lou Magnolia, tall New York boxer in place of Johnny Brasci, Boston veteran as referee of the heavyweight match one week from Wednesday really indicate just the opposite.

Magnolia gained the assignment unexpectedly after a protracted and somewhat violent meeting Tuesday night of the fighters' managers and Jack Dempsey. The rugged New Yorker, a demon worker on fighters of the clinching type, replaced Brasci, and also Jack Sheehan, the alternate named by the Massachusetts State Athletic commission.

Through the technicalities of fight contracts, it was explained that the Massachusetts commission merely has asked for an opinion on the qualifications of referees, that the managers were able to get together and choose a man both refused to accept a few days ago.

The possible complications, however, are manifold. Since Florida has no boxing commission and no ring code, a set of regulations acceptable to both boxers must be arranged. Conferees started Tuesday with Sharkey camp set stubbornly against any but Massachusetts rules, which preclude draw decisions, and the Stribling forces equally determined that New York State regulations shall rule the contest.

The match is picking up momentum each day. Financially, the struggle for success is over. The cash receipts Tuesday stood at $250,000 the approximate cost of staging the match.

POSTPONE VOLLEYBALL GAMES FOR TUESDAY

The Appleton Y. M. C. A. netballers will probably have to wait a week before they invade the Kaukauna. "T" volleyball team, because the game scheduled for 7:30 Tuesday evening at the Electric city has been postponed indefinitely, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director.

The local men were in hopes of establishing themselves at the top of the ladder in the Fox River Valley Volleyball tournament. The Green Bay "Y", Oshkosh Elks and Appleton netballers are tied for first place each having won 13 games and losing 2. Kaukauna has won 5 games and lost 5.

Wealthy Backers Assure Success For Miami Fight

Memory of Rickard Dominates as Promoters Go About Work

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles by Henry L. Farrell, N.E.A. Service sports writer, whose articles appear in the Appleton Post-Crescent exclusively in this city, in which he sizes up the approaching fight at Miami Beach, Fla., between Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey. Farrell, one of the shrewdest judges of fighters among sports writers, has been on the ground at Miami Beach several days gathering material for these articles. In his concluding article, he will name the fighter he thinks will win.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

MIAMI BEACH—This is another spot off the beaten path of the battle-scarred prize fight reporters. But it is no another Shelby, Mont. Nor is it the Miami of a number of years ago that tried to get two high-priced young men into the ring with moneyless promises.

There was a fight in Shelby between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons but it was the financial bust of history. Three banks blew up under the strain of paying Dempsey $100,000 less than he had been guaranteed and if poor Tom Gibbons had demanded a single copper he would have been forced to accept an I. O. U. signed with a borrowed pencil.

Miami's venture, attempted later, was not quite such a crash. It may be ages before Shelby's record ever will be tied. Miami tried to stage a fight between Willie Stribling and Gene Tunney without money and without an experienced promoter in the ring as there was at Shelby. Tunney may not have been in fear of the same young man who is a principal in the coming contest, but he certainly was looking for an out and did take quick advantage of the chance offered.

MONEY MEN ASSURE SUCCESS

Arriving here from the north with the predictions of northerners that "there won't be a fight down there, it is easy to have any misgivings dispelled. The men in charge tell you that Jack Sharkey and Willie Stribling will be in there to do something on the night of Feb. 27. And they are big money men—men of Tex Rickard's group of 600 millionaires, and, if the customers do not make it a financial success, there will be no explosion of the banks and trust companies in this territory.

Some Wall Street vaults will have to take the rap. It is not the purpose of this piece to say how many thousands of dollars are to be made or lost on Rickard's last venture or how many vacant seats there will be when time comes for the fight that has been advertised to produce the next heavyweight champion of the world.

It is our guess that there will be many persons present and the guess is based upon the experience gained in covering the Shelby tragedy and the Miami comedy.

REMEMBER RICKARD

The men who buy tickets for this fight know that there is going to be a fight. Prospective purchasers had their doubts from the first about the Shelby fight and the word went around that Tunney would take advantage of any excuse to duck his Miami engagement, and the magic of the Rickard name was not applied to either.

The memory of Rickard hangs around this Miami Beach venture. The men behind it undertook what they thought to be a hopeless task as a memorial to him that might cost them two hundred thousand dollars. They followed the Rickard policy of being square and telling the truth. Rickard showed those who doubted him in Goldfield by pouring $30,000 in gold pieces in an unguarded window of his saloon and Rickard's shoes, showed his hand in the same manner when the experienced reporters came to him with their doubts.

"Come with me," Carey said, and he led them to the bank and showed them the money on hand and he has been showing daily receipts from the box offices that indicate no money will be lost on the fight, if any.

"All the money we have shown you is fight money," Carey never goes into our pocket," Carey said.

PROMOTERS HONEST

Carey, by his frankness, won the confidence of many customers who must come from miles around if all the seats are taken for the fight. He even talked down Jack Dempsey when that optimistic young man was gloating about a half million dollar gate.

"Not that much, Jack, hold down your enthusiasm," Carey admonished him.

The big difference between the men in charge of the fight here and those who tried to put over the Shelby thing is not one of experience particularly—it is one of honesty with the men covering the story.

The men in charge in Shelby lied and lied. There are more genteel words that might be used, but what they did was lie. They told the count that they had the money and they didn't have it, they said they would get it when the pinch came and they didn't have a chance to get it. And the experience there was what caused the veteran reporters to be so curious about the financial phase of this enterprise.

It is out of line to be talking so much about finances. The men who try that they had the money and they didn't have it, they said they would get it when the pinch came and they didn't have a chance to get it. And the experience there was what caused the veteran reporters to be so curious about the financial phase of this enterprise.

W. C. T. U. OPPOSES NEW FIGHT BILL

Madison—(P)—Mrs. Flora Hopkins, president of the Dane-co. W. C. T. U. was one of the leading opponents of Senator Irving P. Mehl-gans' boxing bill, which would order a referendum decision at boxing bouts and exhibitions in Wisconsin, before the senate committee on state and local government Tuesday.

Major opposition to the proposed measure was on the grounds that its establishment as a law would encourage betting on decisions of boxing matches.

MIDWEST LEADERS INVADE CITY FOR GAME WITH VIKINGS

Carleton Has Won Six Games and Lost None in College Conference.

LAWRENCE college basketball team will go back into action Friday night for the first time since the defeat at Ripon, Feb. 11. The opponent for the evening is the Carleton college quintet, leader in the Midwest conference with six games won and none lost.

When Coach A. C. Denney trots out his cagers on the floor Friday, he will present to the home folks the changed lineup made necessary by ineptibility and injury. However, Biggers, star forward, again has been doing his stuff and will be ready to take the floor if needed. The other changes in the team will show St. Mitchell at guard and Laird at center.

Carleton faces a hard job keeping its record clean as it invades the state. The Minnesotans meet Lawrence on Friday evening and then journey down to Ripon to battle the leaders in the Little Four conference. One defeat for Carleton will give Knox college with four wins and one defeat a chance at the title.

Only 10 conference games remain to be played, five of which will be wiped off the schedule, for Carleton meets Lawrence at Appleton and Knox tangles with Hamline at St. Paul Friday night and Coe goes to Beloit, Carleton to Ripon and Monmouth to Mount Vernon, Iowa, to meet Cornell Saturday night.

The Carleton five kept its record clean last week by defeating Coe, 27 to 19.

Wilkesbarre, Pa. — Mickey Doyle, Pittston, knocked out Frankie Garcia, Utica, N. Y. (1). Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, outpointed Garfield Johnson, Pittsburgh (10).

Cleveland — Johnny Datto, Philadelphia Islands, and Phil Zwick, Cleveland, no contest (6). Bob Moody, Pittsburgh, knocked out Jack Huber, Buffalo (1).

BADGER COACHES DON'T LIKE NEW GRID RULING

Madison — (AP)—The football rules committee's adoption of the rule making all fumbles dead at the point of recovery will rob the game of one of its greatest thrills in the opinion of University of Wisconsin coaches. Athletic Director George Little and the assistant coaches, Irv Uteritz and Guy Sundt, believe the rule will put a check on a team of alert ball players, who, although physically smaller and lighter, always had a chance of pulling out with an unexpected victory by means of a fumble.

There is no use in teaching players to be alert, in Uteritz's opinion. "Why coach men to keep their eyes on the ball and to pounce on it the instant it rolls free?" asked the assistant coach.

CAL STILL UNCERTAIN ABOUT HIS NEXT JOB

Washington — (AP)—President Coolidge has not yet arrived at a decision as to his occupation after retirement from office, although he has been approached by several persons with proposals that he write syndicate articles for newspapers. The president regards that field as a fine one, but hesitates to bind himself by the urgency of regular production. However, he may write occasional articles dealing with his experiences and observations in public office.

The president had told callers that he is not in a position to make a positive decision at this time. This is in conformity with a previous assertion that he does not feel that his duties as president permit him to enter into any arrangement with an outside interest before his retirement.

OUT OF THE PAST

WAY back in 1912 an infield that was worth $100,000 was an attraction of the day. When a sports writer advanced the opinion that Stuffie McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and Home-run Baker of the Philadelphia Athletics were worth $100,000 on the hoof the idea was ridiculed. It was admitted that they made up the greatest infield of the day but ball players didn't come as high then as they do now.

There isn't much doubt that McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker, if they were in their prime today, would command $100,000 each and as a group they might be sold for more than a half million dollars. The old picture above, in the funny looking uniforms they did not abandon for years, shows the $100,000 infield left to right, McInnis first base, Collins second base, Barry shortstop and Baker third base.

Evers May Pull Braves From National Cellar

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Leased Wire
Copyright, 1929.

NEW YORK—Even with all the troubles that the Boston National league club has had, it is just possible that the Braves may win the "Florida spring championship" in 1929. Much will depend upon possible improvement of certain pitchers of the team. Johnny Evers, who is first assistant manager to Judge Fuchs, if the latter persists in his declaration of holding the position of active manager, thinks a winning nine can be made out of the Boston material. Not a name that will rise out in front and run away with the pennant, but one that will beat Brooklyn and give the Phillies a battle. Perhaps, too, one that can keep the pace with Cincinnati.

"The disposition at Boston is to go ahead and put the team on a basis where it can get into the National league contest as a factor calculated to make trouble for other nines," said Evers. "There is no reason to think that Joe Dugan cannot play third better than Lester Bell. The greatest advantage that Bell has is in his batting but we have got to get an infield that will help a staff of pitchers. Dugan at third, Rabbit Maranville at short, Fred Maguire at second and George Sisler at first makes by no means the weakest infield in baseball. If Bell could field like Dugan, we would have the best third baseman in the National league. Another advantage lies in having a young player who will be of strength for some years to come."

Boston has permitted Gautreaux to go to Montreal. He will do better there than with Boston. He is not as good a fielder as Maguire, who is a fast and steady player, and who can hold second base safely guarded in 1929.

The taking on of Dugan by the Boston club is believed to have been part of the plan in mind in permitting Bell to go to Chicago. Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs is confident that Clyde Beck will be successful at third base. McCarthy is positive in his convictions and as successful in his judgment as other managers, yet if there were a chance for him to get Bell without paying a huge price for his services, he would hardly be able to restrain himself from taking on a young batter who would add to the strength of the Cubs in stock work.

Evers is confident that he is going to get on well at Boston. He is fully aware of the task that confronts him because he went to Boston before when the city was considered to be a forlorn hope. It was the combination of Evers and Maranville in 1914, combined with the splendid work of three pitchers, that carried the Braves on to victory in the world series.

Eddie Farrell can be figured upon as an infield utility man in Boston and there is Albert Moore to play third. Perhaps Eddie can do better than the others. What concerns Johnny Evers has remaining his old magnetism and persistent energy to get this team started off with its right foot foremost. If he has, and he is left alone, he will be an excellent tonic for the Braves.

LAWRENCE STUDENT ENTERS IN CHICAGO BOXING TOURNAMENT

Ellis Joseph, Lawrence college student, has been entered in the Chicago Tribune's golden gloves boxing tournament which will be held at the Coliseum the last three days of this week. Ellis is fighting as unattached to any club.

The youngster, who hails from Singapore, China, has impressed Coach Clarence H. Rasmussen who directs the Viking milt sport and kazz entered him in an amateur bout in Milwaukee several weeks ago. Arrangements to enter the youth in the Tribune tournament were completed Tuesday. Ellis fights at 135 pounds.

BASKETBALL fans who witness weekly games at the Y. M. C. A. received a big thrill Tuesday evening and the dope bucket together with the Appleton Coated Paper team was rudely upset by Kimberly club. The villagers dropped the Appleton team from first place by beating them 23 and 20 in a game that had the gym in an uproar, especially during the closing minutes. The first game of the evening also was a thriller, the Citizens' National Bank squad eluding out a win over the Y. M. C. A., 17 and 10.

The Coated aggregation has had things pretty much its own way in past weeks and had lost only one game until Tuesday evening. Taking a substantial lead in the opening half, with R. Reetz and Kneip getting seven field goals between them, indications were that the invaders were doomed to another trimming. The score at the half was 18 to 12 in favor of the Paper team. Close guarding when held the Coated five to one field goal and consistent scoring on the part of the Club team enabled them to come from behind, tie the score and win desperate efforts of the Appleton team to crash through with the needed points.

After their auspicious defeat last Saturday evening, the Y. M. C. A. team fluffed out in its game with the Bankers get ahead in the first half 13 to 2 and then attempted a comeback that fell short. Haase and Hollenbeck were high scorers with two baskets each during the period.

During the second half, the tables were turned, the Bankers getting two baskets while the Y aggregation chalked up three field goals and two free throws. The margin obtained by the Bankers in the first half was too much to overcome and the association team took another trimming.

Young Stribling's Life Story Starts Today In Post-Crescent

What do you know about Young Stribling, who fights Jack Sharkey at Miami, Fla., on February 27 and who may be the next heavyweight champion of the world?

The Appleton Post-Crescent, through NEA Service, Inc., has arranged to publish the complete life story of this colorful fighter. The first article appears on today's sports page.

Intimate chapters in Stribling's life, from birth to this day, are revealed for the first time in this series of articles.

The author is Milton K. Wallace, Macon, Ga., attorney and a life-long friend of the Striblings.

Wallace tells in today's article of Stribling's childhood. He relates how Ma visioned young Billy as a doctor or lawyer when he grew up and how Pa, whose ring ambitions had been thwarted, saw in him a future ring champion. He also tells of Stribling's school days, his days of trouncing on the road and—his first professional fight!

Don't miss this story of Stribling's life. And remember it will appear in The Appleton Post-Crescent exclusively in this newspaper.

Around The Sport World

HOT SPOT FOR CHARLEY

THE champion St. Louis Cardinals will have to stand or sink this year largely upon the performance of a rookie shortstop Charley Gelbert, the son of a distinguished University of Pennsylvania athlete.

It has happened before that a rookie came up to an important position like short and made good. Joe Sewell did it years ago with the Cleveland Indians and his was a tougher spot than the one young Gelbert will assume.

The Cleveland Indians were fighting for the pennant in 1920 when Ray Chapman, their star shortstop, was hit on the head by a ball pitched by Carl Mays and died from the effects of the injury. The Indians, of course, had to have another shortstop and they snared young Sewell fresh from the campus at the University of Alabama and he made good.

The St. Louis Browns uncovered a star shortstop last season when they produced Kress from their minor league farm and they even went a little better by bringing a good second baseman right up from the same team. The work of Kress and Brannon put the Browns into the money and made them the most surprising team of the year.

These sensational rookies aren't uncovered every year by everybody and if the Browns did get away with a rather wild experiment it doesn't mean that the Cardinals will come through with the same success.

THEY THINK HE'S GOOD

The St. Louis owners made a display of great confidence in the rookie Gelbert when they promoted him from the Rochester International League farm and told him that he was expected to be the regular shortstop.

They made even a more convincing gesture to prove their faith in him when they dismissed their two regular shortstops, Thevnew and Maranville. Thus the proposition was put up to the young man that he had to become the regular player in a very warm spot.

AS GOOD AS $150,000

Billy Southworth, the new manager of the club, does not seem to be worried. In comparison to his own position no other spot on the ball club can be considered a real hot one and he may consider that the shortstop business is no great worry.

Southworth managed the Rochester club into a championship last year and he should know something about the capabilities of Gelbert.

"The kid's good," he said recently. "He's faster than Frisch. He can hit better than any other man on the St. Louis club and he can throw better than George Kelly did in the days when he was a real thrower."

Cher Ami, D. S. C.

Some of the greatest heroes of the World War were carrier pigeons. One of the bravest of them was an American bird, the famous little hero that was with Major Whittlesley's "Lost Battalion" during the closing days of the war. Its name was "Cher Ami," which means "dear friend."

By REA Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

Fighting in the Argonne, Major Whittlesley's battalion marched so fast that the men soon were ahead of their own line and surrounded by the enemy.

The barrage fire of the Americans was coming over, but instead of falling among the enemy, it fell among the American boys.

Airplanes tried to drop food to the "lost battalion," but Whittlesley did not betray where he was, because the enemy would have slaughtered his men. Half the men were killed, all were starving and many were wounded. Men were sent back, but could not get through. Their only hope was four pigeons.

ANOTHER SMILE FOR TODAY

NOT GUILTY

LADY: Waiter, you have let a hair fall in my soup.

BALD-HEADED GUY: You flatterer--Kasper, Stockholm.

TURNED TABLES

"Shut that door! Where were you brought up--in a barn?"

The man addressed complied meekly and silently. The first speaker observed that he was in tears and going over to the man he apologized.

"Oh, come," he said, soothingly.

STUMPED

"Professor, I hear you are master of all foreign tongues."

"No. There are two I cannot master, those of my wife and of my mother-in-law--Pele Mele, Paris."

STUDENTS STUDY HARD AT BAY REFORMATORY

Inmates of the Green Bay reformatory are advancing rapidly in their University of Wisconsin Extension course, according to E. M. Gorrow, local field representative of the extension division, who visits them every 10 days and assists them in their lessons. Mr. Gorrow is the only person from the outside who is permitted to enter the cell house after 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Courses now being studied are arithmetic, algebra, bookkeeping, college English, short story writing, architectural drawing, electrical wiring, philosophy, ethics, high school English, and mechanical drawing. The preparatory education of inmates varies from the fourth grade to four years of college.

SCHOOL NURSES VISIT 96 HOMES IN MONTH

One case of diphtheria, one of pneumonia, four of chicken pox and eight cases of influenza are included in the January report of the school nurses. During the month 96 homes were visited.

Seventy-three of the 96 cases of defective teeth were remedied, and 10 of the 29 defective tonsils were corrected. The vision of six pupils was corrected.

Over 300 pupils were given complete inspection and 133 were given partial inspection. A total of 2,466 pupils were weighed and measured, and of these 1,649 were of normal weight, 755 were 7 per cent or more underweight, and 48 were 20 per cent or more overweight.

The monthly work of the nurses also included social service work, office interviews, dental clinic work, visiting schools, individual conferences, classroom talks, first aid work, and child welfare work.

KENOSHA PREPARING FOR GANG INVASIONS

Kenosha—(P)—Chief of Police John T. Sullivan, aims to have his force ready to combat gang invasions. He contemplates purchase of several machine guns, and points out need for them by citing a theater robbery here two months ago when the bandits carried such a weapon. With only pistols for protection, police might have been killed by the bandits if their paths had crossed the officer said.

MAKE RAPID PROGRESS ON GOVERNMENT LOCKS

Repair work on the second and third Appleton locks is progressing rapidly and it is expected the work will be completed in two weeks, according to A. F. Bennett, government engineer. The third lock has been completed, but it will be unable to remove the coffer dams until the river is free of ice, according to Mr. Bennett. At present work is being centered about the second lock. Old wood platforms are being replaced by concrete and stone.

"My Skin was a Sight"

"I couldn't look people in the face. I was so ashamed of my skin! It was always blotched with pimples and blackheads and at times itched terribly. I had tried everything and was so discouraged that I couldn't bring myself to take hope in anything. You can imagine my surprise, therefore, when one application of Rowley Mentha Sulphur almost completely cleared my skin. In a short time you wouldn't know my skin—it was so clear and healthy looking." The Sulphur in Rowley Mentha Sulphur clears the skin while the menthol heals the sore, broken tissue. That's the twofold action you want for skin troubles. Even fiery eczema yields to it. All drug stores carry Rowley Mentha Sulphur. Try it tonight.
